Replacement For Jack Larsen

United Party Nominates Ledgerwood For Trustee

by PAT GERLACH

Denis J. Ledgerwood is Schaumburg United Party's (SUP) nominee for the village board vacancy created by the Aug. 1 resignation of Jack Larsen.

Even though no official announcement had been made late yesterday, Mayor Robert O. Atcher is expected to make the appointment at Tuesday night's regular meeting of the board of trustees.

Ledgerwoood was endorsed for the post by members of the executive board of SUP last Thursday during a meeting which nearly coincided with the first anniversary of establishment of the local political party.

Reportedly, Ledgerwood, who has taken a prominent role in civic activities for the past six years, was chosen by SUP after careful consideration of a number of men and women appraised as both capable and qualified by party leaders.

Further detzils of the selection are expected in an official release expected this week from Ray LeBeau, village director of public relations, who also handles publicity for SUP.

Denis Ledgerwood

A SALES MANAGER with the Space and Systems Division of General Time Corp., Ledgerwood is a charter member of the Schaumburg Jaycees and has been active in that group as well as other community organizations.

Presently he serves as chairman of Schaumburg Airport Study Committee, a citizen's advisory group responsible for supervising a feasibility study to determine need for an expanded and municipally-owned general aviation airfield in the community.

It is also being speculated that Ledgerwood may be named to replace Larsen, who moved to Dundee last week, as village board liaison representative to the airport study panel.

Ledgerwood also serves as co-chairman of Schaumburg's second annual Septemberfest which is being sponsored by the Jaycees and Greater Schaumburg Association of Commerce and Industry.

Following ratification of his appointment, Ledgerwood will be expected to seek election to the two-year balance of Larsen's term next April.

Ledgerwood and his wife, Peg, are parents of four daughters and one son.

Mental Health Service Change Slated

Plans are being made for Elk Grove Village Community Service to assume responsibility for mental health services in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

These townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, are now served by the Northwest Mental Health Association (NMHA) in Arlington Heights.

Community Service recently received a $52,000 grant from the state mental health department to open a mental health center.

Jordan Rosen, director of Community Service, said no definite date had been set for the transfer but, "We are shooting for a Sept. 1, breakoff time. We hope to assume total responsibility then."

Rosen said Community Service had already started receiving referrals from NMHA.

COMMUNITY SERVICE will remain associated with NMHA according to Rosen. He said the two organizations will probably run joint programs.

Lois Radtke, of NMHA said that patients now being treated at the NMHA center will continue treatment at the center.

Dr. Eugene Trager, director of NMHA said the transition was, "up to him (Rosen), we'll carry the ball until he is ready to assume control."

Dr. Trager said that NMHA will lose approximately 40 per cent of the population it had been serving.

The reduction will be a gain for Northwest said Dr. Trager. "We will be able to give more intensive service than in the past. The quantity may decrease, but the quality and variety will increase and improve."

DESPITE THE reduction in the number of people NMHA treats, its budget was increased by the state. Dr. Trager said the extra money will be used to expand programs.

Currently the agency is only operating therapy and treatment programs. Dr. Trager plans to start some community education programs. These may include such topics as the problems of the suburban housewife, raising teenagers, improving the quality of life and general community education on mental health and treatment.

"If the public sees these programs as worthy, we'll continue to offer worthwhile services," said Dr. Trager.

Dr. Trager said he plans no increase in the number of staff personnel. He said that the staff will be able to work more hours as the need for service rises.

Weigh Spraying Of Mosquitos

Hiring a private contractor to spray Hoffman Estates against mosquitos is on the agenda for discussion and action by the village board tonight.

A proposal was solicited by Village Mgr. George Longmeyer from International Exterminator Co., Inc. The firm's Palatine representative, Jim McDaniels, quoted a cost of $1,446 to cover the village completely once. Longmeyer also contacted two other firms, which said they were not large enough to handle the job, he said.

If approved by the board, said Longmeyer, the fogging likely could be accomplished this week, although it would require two evenings to cover the entire village.

Longmeyer contacted the firms on directions from Mayor Frederick Downey, who said he and village offices have received numerous telephone calls complaining about mosquitos. Some residents have reported cases of children severely bitten, he said.

Also planned for discussion is flooding in Parcel A, said Longmeyer. A delegation of residents of that section of the village has asked for a brief explanation of what village officials learned Thursday in a conference on flooding and highway development with spokesmen for the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Children Have New Favorite Bird

by MARILYN HEISER

Little kids with worms and frogs crawling out of their back pockets are a common sight. But Friday, about 45 children from Schaumburg adopted a new creature to love: pigeons.

The Schaumburg Park District sponsored a racing and carrier pigeon exhibit and amid the children's squeals and shouts of glee, Bob Middleton and Bill Griffith of the Elgin Homing Pigeon Club, 110 Alpine Ln., Hoffman Estates, demonstrated the fine points of their birds.

About 45 pigeons were on hand, and once released from their cages, they took off for their loft at the racing club. A tag with a number is attached to each bird's leg so the winning racer can be identified.

Middleton explained that pigeons are bred for different purposes, some for beauty, some for eating, some for racing. There are almost 400 different breeds.

RACING PIGEONS CAN start flying when they are four weeks old. They fly races for distances ranging from 300 to 1,000 miles. While the average bird lives 8 to 10 years, they are effective racers for about six years. The good racers, when retired from the sport, are used to breed a new generation of speedy birds.

The children, asking questions about the pigeon racing business, were particularly entranced with pigeons used to carry messages. Griffith explained that carrier pigeons were used in World War II to carry messages because pigeons, unlike radios, can't be jammed.

Two of the children, Jackie Warren, 420 Courtland St., and Keith Cook, 1304 Kingston Ln., were chosen from the screams of "me first" to send messages with the carrier pigeons.

Griffith tagged the pigeons with the children's names and addresses, which Middleton will send back to them after the pigeons return to their loft. A third message, signed by a group of children, will be mailed back to Jennings House, 220 S. Civic Dr.

THE HOMING instinct of pigeons is yet to be understood scientifically. Middleton said studies are going on at various universities in an attempt to explain this phenomenon.

This mysterious element of pigeons adds to the interest they arouse. As one of the pigeons flew off to its loft, one little boy yelled, "You better put him on a leash."

Middleton said there are five pigeon racing clubs in the Northwest suburbs. Pigeon racing apparently holds its own with other sports. The pigeons win trophies and receive certificates in recognition of their speed.

But the kids weren't listening terribly hard to Middleton at this point. They were too busy clamoring for their turn to hold one of the sleek gray birds.

State Must Authorize More Building Space

Harper May Be Splitting Its Seams By 1980

by WANDALYN RICE

Harper College faces the possibility of being 50 per cent short of building space by 1980 unless more buildings are authorized by the state, college administrators told the board of trustees Friday.

As part of a report on long-range planning during a two-day long board session, administrators told the board they are drawing up justifications for additional space in hopes of getting state approval for additional buildings.

The State of Illinois furnishes a substantial portion of the money for construction by junior colleges and so must approve building allocations.

Harper is now beginning construction on music and science buildings and has preliminary approval for vocational education and physical education facilities from the Illinois Junior College Board. The junior college board's approval must be finally approved by the state Legislature.

EVEN IF THE Legislature does approve those additional buildings, administrators said, it will not be enough for the college to keep up with projected enrollment.

The board also heard how college officials are trying to increase efficiency and use of staff by increasing class size and moving to a lecture plus discussion group format for many classes.

Clarence Schauer, vice president of academic affairs, said the lecture class with a related discussion section is now being used in accounting, psychology, history and sociology. In accounting classes last spring, he said, lectures were held once a week and averaged 146 students and discussion sections were held twice a week and averaged 23 students.

He said the increase in the number of lecture classes has enabled the college to keep its average class size up and its costs down. "The loss of one student, over-all, in average class size on campus costs us $70,000," he said.

In addition, he said more efforts are being made to expand self-teaching classes. Typing this year was taught to some students using tapes that could be checked out of the resource center.

SCHAUER said educators do not yet have research showing the most effective class size for any given field, but said one study has shown "if we just want to dispense information, it doesn't matter how many we have in a class."

He also said there seems to be agreement that discussion sections should not exceed 30 to 35 students.

College Pres. Robert Lahti told the board some students are already being turned away from programs because of lack of space. He said a report on the numbers turned away this fall from all college programs will be available soon.

In another report, Lahti described the college's program for training administrators and told the board he believes it will increase efficiency and help the college keep up with rapid growth.

UNDER THE program administrators receive training in management skills similar to that offered by private industry, Lahti said. The system differs from standard practice in educational institutions, he said, in which "we usually get administrator out of the class room."

He said usually a good teacher is chosen for an administrative position and then "he is suddenly in charge of evaluation and budget, but he has no more skills than he had the year before when he was just a damn good teacher."

He explained the management development program at Harper is designed "to give those guys a chance to succeed." As a result of the program, he said, "We in administration share a common language. I think the program has been very successful in the minds of the administrators."

Morton Grove Farm New College Site

A Morton Grove horse farm was chosen as the future site of the permanent campus of Oakton Community College at a special meeting of the college board of trustees.

The DeLaine Horse Farm, 6531 Beckwith Rd., Morton Grove, and portions of the Eldorado housing subdivision were approved by a 4-1 vote as the site of the campus.

The 52-acre site is almost directly north of the temporary campus at 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove, and is adjacent to a Cook County Forest Preserve north of Dempster St.

About 30 acres of the site are south of Beckwith Road and 22 acres, north of the road.

The site is bounded on the south by a Commonwelath Edison Co. right-of-way which contains high tension wires on the west by the forest preserve, on the north by residential housing and Parma Park, and on the east by Nashville and Nagausett avenues.

PAUL GILSON, chairman of the site committee, said the site is centrally located in the college district of Maine and Niles townships. He said it is easily accessible from existing roads, entails no large site-development cost, contains a two-acre pond in the southwest corner, and is accessible to water, sewer and electrical power.

Neil King, college real estate consultant, said the college will be able to use the right-of-way for recreation areas. He said he is hopeful that the college will also have access to the Northwestern Golf Course northwest of the site and the forest preserve.

King did not say whether the owners of the land are willing to sell. When the Herald contacted Louise Hart, daughter of Mrs. Hubert Silberman, owner of the horse farm, last month, she said the family had not been contacted by Oakton and that the property wasn't for sale. The farm is about 65 to 70 per cent of the total site. King said 10 or 11 families are now living on the property.

King added that quite frequently the initial reaction of property owners is one of opposition.

Gilson said, "We expect to pay market price," but added, "We will pay no more than market price."

King said he was not prepared to give an estimate of the cost of the 52-acre site.

Trustee Stephen Loska voted against the site because no written reports giving details on the feasibility of the site were given to board members.

"I find it difficult to vote on a recommendation at this time," he said.

GILSON SAID the site committee did not have time to prepare a report before the board meeting called by board Pres. LeRoy Wauck on Wednesday. He added that work on such report will begin immediately for the trustees and the Illinois Junior College Board.

The state college board must approve the site before a referendum can be held. The college hopes to come before the state board during its meeting Sept. 15 in Chicago.

Gilson said possible sites have been discussed with the state board "many times and in great detail." If the state board approves the site a referendum will be held soon afterward.

The property is among 23 sites given consideration by college officials since site investigations began two years ago. It is one of four sites which were under primary consideration by the site committee in recent weeks.

Two sites were offered for sale to the college by the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese, and a site south of Milwaukee Avenue near the Tri-State Tollway outside the college district comprise the remaining three sites under scrutiny.

Let Little Girls Be Little Girls

by STEVE NOVICK

Behind every superstar, there's a supermother.

And perhaps you can forgive an occasional mother who boosts her child's career — if the child really does have talent.

However, it seems every child has untold talents, invisible to the naked eye but startlingly evident to a self-indulgent parent more than willing to just "tell the truth" about his or her standout offspring.

More than 1,000 telling parents descended on Woodfield during the past two weeks, children in hand, for a competition to choose models for a back-to-school fashion show at the shopping mall.

NOT ALL were stage mothers. Some were — forgive me — downright pushy. Too many women, with dollar signs in their eyes, let their maternal instincts blind their view of reality.

Pigeon toes and braces are not the stuff of which great models are made.

Not only were a lot of women deluding themselves, it is possible they were guilty of another error in judgment.

As their daughters (very few boys auditioned) pranced before the judges like the beauty contestants they in a sense were, I wonder how many mothers realiled or even cared that they were contributing to the exploitation of women.

That's a serious charge, if you believe the fashion industry exploits women not only because of its materialistic emphasis but also because of its manipulation of women as clothes horses.

Contrary to the attitude of the fashion foisters, clothes do not make the woma — or the little girl.

AND IF YOU do not accept the women's lib premise, you might argue that modeling develops womanly grace and poise, and that's great.

I'd just like to see little girls be little girls a little longer.

If little girls do model, it should be for the fun of it, and because they, not their parents, have the ambition to do so.

Parental pressure to succeed — in any modeling, beauty or talent contest — often takes its toll on the tykes. A competition can be built up so much in a child's mind that he may feel he is letting his parents down by not winning or that he is somehow inferior.

Sometimes parents who are bad losers blame the child for a defeat when the defeat really means nothing more than not winning.

EQUALLY IRKSOME are parents who blame everyone but the child for his defeat. Either the contest was rigged, or the judges stupid or the whole thing badly organized. They too fail to realize that sometimes all of us must lose, and might deserve to.

Given the numbers who annually try out for these contests, and given the variety of human foibles and tastes involved, talented children often miss the winner's circle, but survive — believe it or not — to lead normal, healthy, happy lives.

It's their parents, who should know better, who bear the most obvious scars.

District Doubts Need For Education Service Region

"Who needs them?" is the attitude Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 board members have taken about service provided by the Cook County Educational Service Region and Richard Martwick, region superintendent. "I am hurt by the district's attitude but willing to talk to them about my services. But the meeting must be in my offices," said Martwick on Friday.

"After all Dist. 54 started all this talk about forming their own service region so I think they owe me the courtesy of coming to my place," said Martwick. The District 54 board wants to talk too, but on their home ground.

Dist. 54 board memeber Donnie Rudd, who heads the legislative committee, won support last month for a resolution proposing the establishment of more than one education service region in Cook County.

SINCE THEN Rudd said neighboring districts have indicated they will support such a resolution.

"The publicity is bothering Martwick. He doesn't like us saying we can do without him. If he wants to shut us up he should be willing to meet with us anyplace," said Rudd.

Thursday the Dist. 54 Board of Education members set a 7 p.m. Aug. 11 meeting between Martwick and themselves in the Helen Keller High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

Martwick said Friday "the time and date are fine with me but the meeting must be at 33 W. Grand Ave., (Chicago) my office. I've invited all the board members here personally on the phone and they agreed" said Martwick. "At that time I will be glad to substantiate all the great services our region supplies and would be glad to continue giving Dist. 54," said Martwick.

"IF HE CAN'T make our meeting Friday here on our own home ground, we can take the issue to the State School Board convention in November," said Rudd. "And if he's that busy we ought to elect some one who can take time to come out here."

Rudd stressed that his reason for calling for formation of a separate service region is educationally sound and not politically motivated as Martwick believes.

Rudd has said Dist. 54 is large enough to provide all the benefits Martwick says the service region now offers.

The service region offers the following programs: Use of electronic data processing and mass purchasing both provided to District 54 through its membership in the Northwest Education Cooperative not the region, said Rudd. Special education services are provided through the district's membership in the North Suburban Special Education Organization. Development of its curriculum is done by the District 54's own director, Rudd added.

"All the things the service regionsays they do for us we have done for ourselves," said Rudd. "If Martwick wants to convince us otherwise we'll be glad to listen but here, in our home terrotory."

Schaumburg Man Killed In Truck Accident

Three men were killed Saturday in a fiery collision between two pick-up trucks on Ill. Rte. 72 near Elgin.

Dead are John T. Murphy, 31, of 513 Dartmouth Ln., Schaumburg, Kenneth Scheer, 31, of 217 King Ave., West Dundee, and David Marzullo, 24, of 504 Walnut Dr., Streamwood.

State police and East Dundee firemen fought the fire for close to an hour after the 3 a.m. crash before bring it under control.

Murphy was a passenger in the pickup truck owned and driven by Marzullo. The pick-up collided head-on with one owned by Howell Tractor and Equipment of Elk Grove Village and driven by Scheer.

All three were pronounced dead at St. Joseph Hospital in Elgin. Identification of the bodies was difficult, according to Kane County Jack Weider, because all three men were burned beyond recognition.

Compensation For Holidays Will Be Extra Days Off

Future compensation for Hoffman Estates Police Department employes who work holidays will be in the form of time off, said Mayor Frederick Downey Friday.

Downey confirmed details of an agreement with representatives of the village's Fraternal Order of Police in settlement of a dispute over holiday work compensation. In the past, the patrolmen have received holiday pay. But Downey announced last Monday the village would deduct that pay for the two holidays already worked in fiscal 1972-73 from paychecks to be distributed Friday. The men contested the action, and met with Downey Thursday night.

Downey said Friday full checks, without the deductions, were prepared prior to Thursday's meeting, because the session had been scheduled.

When asked why he had changed his position, he said, "in light of everything, I felt that was the best thing to do." In ordering the deductions, Downey had said the holiday pay resulted from clerical error. The compensation should have been in the form of time off, he said.

'Oldies But Goodies Night' Set Wednesday

The sounds of Ricky Nelson, the Everly Brothers and other old favorites will fill Atcher Park Wednesday as the Schaumburg Park District features an "Oldies But Goodies Night."

The Hartford Convention will supply the music for the evening, which is part of the park district's summer concert series.

Everyone is encouraged to dig out their white socks, penny loafers and black tee shirts for the event. Jeff Fox, superintendant of recreation, said the evening should appeal to the "older group," the teen-agers of the 50s.'

There is no admission charge for the concert which will begin at 7:30 p.m. In case of rain the program will be held Thursday night.

Oh, He Flies Through The Air With The Greatest...

Fifty years ago Jim Kendell would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendell, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 35,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 55 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendell is committed to training young people and is working currently with teen-aged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendell said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On those flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work becaue it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendell holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengined airplanes, seaplanes and even balloons.

Our reporter "pilots" a glider. Story and a page of photos on the Back Page.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aerostadt Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDELL, 35, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendell soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Company in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flys cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendell is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Llora, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendell says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

A New Bobby Fischer Here? Parks Planning Fall Program

A novel interest in chess created by Brooklyn's Bobby Fischer has moved at least one suburban library into a stalemate.

Of the 166 books devoted to the game, none rest on the Palatine Library shelves.

"I was looking for one the other day, but they were all checked out," said a reference room librarian. "There has been a new interest since the Boris Spassky-Fischer games" (the world chess championship now being held in Reykjavik, Iceland).

The Rolling Meadows Park District hopes to capitalize on the interst in the game. Officials plan a fall recreation program devoted to chess and are organizing a city chess club.

"AS LONG as we get this thing going while Fischer and Spassky are playing we'll be all right," said Rudy Nelson, park district recreation director. "Once people get into it, I'm sure they will continue. . . it just took something like this tournament to build it up."

Soon after the world championship began several weeks ago, calls started coming into the park district office asking about the possibility of a chess program, Nelson said.

Businesses in Arlington Heights, which stock chess sets, however, report buying has not increased measurably. Bill Jensen of Mueller's Stationery in the village is sold out, but says he usually is this time of year.

"Maybe it takes too much time to think. . . not like playing checkers," he said.

ANOTHER MERCHANT in downtown Arlington Heights said, "Fischer hasn't done a thing for us. Kids don't buy the game because of expense. Good sets are $20 and that's too much for them. The small ones are toys."

Walt Schreiber, of the Village Pipe and Tobacco Shop, notes there always has been "a lot of interest in chess in the suburbs." He added that persons are purchasing the more expensive wood-carved and onyx chess sets as household ornaments. "They like the idea of setting them up on coffee tables," he said.

Marshall Field and Co. salesmen at Woodfield in Schaumburg report chess sets selling for $250. At those prices even suburban kids may feel they're getting rooked. Reading about chess is much cheaper.

Hoffman Est. Woman Slain

A casual weekend evening visit at her parent's plush country home in Barrington Hills meant a violent death for 22-year-old Barbara Boand, a recent resident of the Northwest suburbs and one of the victims in Friday's mass slaying at the home of Paul Corbett.

Miss Boand recently moved to an apartment in Hoffman Estates, according to police reports. Sheriff's police detectives were at her apartment at 600 Jones Rd. near Hoffman Estates yesterday seeking clues in the still mysterious death of Miss Boand and three members of her family.

Gunned down beside her were her mother Marian Corbett, 57, stepfather Paul M. Corbett, 67, and Barbara Boand's aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60, also visiting the Corbett home.

Sheriff's police said Miss Boand had moved from the family estate several weeks ago to her apartment. Barrington Hills police confirmed that she did not live at the family home in the exclusive village.

Miss Boand was found dead by her brother Anthony Board, who was returned ing a borrowed car to the house. Mrs. Derry also was pronounced dead at the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Corbett died in Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

There was only speculation last night as to the cause of the mass murders. A few expensive household items were reported taken. Corbett's wallet was empty.

The upper bedrooms of the two-story brick home were ransacked.

The Corbetts reportedly had an elaborate burglar alarm system tied into the Barrington Hills Police Department but the system was not activated.

Schaumburg Airport Plans Nosedive

Plans for a municipality owned general aviation airport in Schaumburg may have hit a temporary snag last week.

At a meeting of the village airport committee Thursday, it was revealed two out of three engineering firms under consideration to do the study have refused to submit detailed cost proposals.

Howard, Needles Tammen & Bergendoff and Ralph H. Burke Associates have indicated they will not itemize costs of the study, but prefer to work in a general fee range based on other comparable work.

The decision of both consultants is based on the fact that the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers does not encourage its members to engage in competitive bidding.

Both consultants also noted that the society's philosophy is now being tested in a court case.

A third firm — Vickrey-Wines (combining with Arnold Thompson Co.) has agreed to furnish itemized costs in line with the committee request.

The committee authorized its chairman, Denis Ledgerwood, to advise the two non-complying firms that cost estimates are mandatory for consideration.

Deadline for formal proposals has been moved from Aug. 14 to Aug. 19 to allow time for the three firms to prepare cost estimates.

THE COMMITTEE will meet Aug. 21 to begin evaluating material submitted by the consultants relative to selecting a firm to perform the study.

Cost of the investigation will be funded by a Federal Aviation Agency master planning grant that will provide two-thirds of the fee.

One-sixth of the cost will come from the Illinois Department of Aeronautics and the remainder will be provided by the Village of Schaumburg in a proposed revenue bond program in order to avoid taxpayer burden.

The proposed study will not limit itself to the existing privately owned Schaumburg Airport, but will survey other appropiate sites in or annexable to the village.

It is expected to take from five to 12 months for completion of the feasibility investigation.

Playschool Program Registration To Open

Registration will open today for the fall playschool program offered by the Hoffman Estates Park District.

The 14-week program will begin Sept. 18. Youngsters four and five years old may join the program. Children who will be four by Dec. 1, 1972 are also eligible.

Four different time sessions will be offered. Two classes will meet three days a week and two will meet two days each week.

All classes will last two hours. Registration fee for the two-day sessions is $25. The three session fee is $37.

Registration will be held at the park district's administration building, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates. More information about the program may be obtained by calling 529-8601.

Pool Referendum Revival Sought

The Hoffman Estates Jaycees have asked the park district board to bring back a referendum defeated earlier this summer to build an indoor pool in the village.

The park board promised to reply to the Jaycees request at their Aug. 15 meeting, following a meeting Aug. 10 with the Dist. 211 School Board.

Jaycees and park board officials as well as other civic leaders are scheduled to discuss use of the pool by Dist. 211 students in order to work out an agreement. Jaycee Pres. Charles Loveisky said, "All children in the district should have use of the pool. That was part of the problem with Winston Knolls."

That subdivision voted heavily against the first pool referendum because Fremd High School students would have been excluded from pool use.

Loveisky pledged Jaycee support to pass a new referendum should the board decide to bring the question to the voters in October. They have established a committee headed by Bob McCullough to involve other organizations and homeowners associations in the area to gain support for the pool.

Bill Mock and Mike Marxer are also serving on the committee.

"I believe it will pass the second time," Loveisky said.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A judge in New Jersey last week struck down a law that made it a criminal offense for a woman to be a common scold.

In case you don't know what a common scold is, it's like having Don Rickles for your mother-in-law.

Many decent, law-abiding citizens were dismayed by the ruling, among them Rhett Halepenny, director of the National Coalition for Keeping a Civil Tongue in Your Head.

"This is the sort of thing we've come to expect from the Supreme Court," he commented bitterly, "but I thought we could depend on the lower courts for protection against feminine invective."

I SAID, "Are you accusing the courts of coddling fishwives?"

"I'm saying that rulings of this type tend to promote promiscuous vituperation," Halepenny replied. "Mark my words — unless this decision is overturned, you'll see an 8.7 per cent rise in the national fulmination rate this year."

"But, sir," I said, "there had been no convictions under the law since 1890. Why keep it on the books any longer?"

Halepenny's eyes lit up. "Aha!" he cried. "The very fact there had been no convictions for 82 years is the best possible proof that the law was effective and should be retained.

"Just think what a floodtide of objurgation there might have been without this legal deterrent."

I GUESS Halepenny has a point there. But I'm not convinced that outlawing common scolding was a wise move in the first place.

Historically, common scolds have directed their diatribes at lewdness, depravity, vice, iniquity and assorted other forms of baseness and debauchery. Not to mention hanky-panky and a few peccadillos.

Had this tradition been maintained, we might today have legions of common scolds on the public streets, berating and upbraiding passersby.

"You, there," they might screech, "take that filthy cigarette out of your mouth . . . Cover up your legs, you brazen hussy . . . Get your hands off that girl, you foul lecher . . . Go home and put your shoes on. You big gorilla . . . Leave that lady's purse alone, your brigand . . . Hold your shoulders up, stupid. Slumping like that will make your lungs collapse . . . Etc., etc."

Who is to say that these sidewalk tirades would not make our cities a better place in which to live?

Nobody, of course, enjoys being tongue lashed. But on the whole, it beats getting mugged.

MSD Delays Suit On Lake Site Plan

Metropolitan Sanitary District officials have deferred filing a condemnation suit over a site adjacent to Harper College.

The MSD board of trustees asked for the delay until a report on the proposed development of the site, ownership of the property, and the size of the site is sent to the board.

The property, near Quinten and Algonquin roads, is the proposed location for a 23-acre lake that will be part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan.

The over-all plan calls for a series of six lakes including a 600-acre lake in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

The site the MSD plans to condemn would be developed to drain the area north and west of Harper College.

THE BASIN to be constructed on the site will be 77 acres in size during peak flood periods.

The basin will have a permanent pool of 23 acres under normal weather conditions.

The MSD board has already enacted an ordinance allowing sanitary district attorneys to file an eminent domain suit to acquire the land.

But the board Thursday asked MSD employes to hold off on the actual filing of the suit until a report could be sent to the board giving details about the proposed basin and the property to be condemned.

MSD General Supt. Ben Sosewitz reported to the board of trustees Thursday that sanitary district attorneys have been unable to reach an agreement with the owners on purchasing the land.

SOSEWITZ TOLD the board that MSD Atty. Robert E. Wiss recommends the condemnation suit be filed because of title problems and an existing suit between several joint owners of the land.

The names of the actual owners of the property are hidden in a bank trust which holds legal title to the land.

Small Cars Require Safeguards

Small-sized cars may be easy on the pocketbook, but they require special driving as safeguards, especially on freeways.

According to the Chicago Motor Club-AAA, though, owners of mini-sized vehicles can avoid these hazards if they recognize them ahead of time and adjust their driving habits accordingly.

First, and most obvious, small cars are difficult for other motorists to see and this factor should be kept in mind at all times.

Also, other drivers sometimes don't allow a compact car the road space it needs for safe maneuvering — they take their space, plus part of yours.

Small cars often are underpowered, and their operators should adjust driving maneuvers to compensate for this lack of horsepower when entering a freeway, or passing another vehicle.

Another frequently ignored problem, according to the Motor Club is that wind conditions affect the control of many smaller vehicles.

Crosswinds, and especially gusts, diminish the safe operation of these cars as speed increases.

Large trucks and buses, too, can create a crosswind when passing or overtaking small cars. In some cases, these crosswinds have been known to actually change the path of travel of the small cars.

A small car's steering capabilities can also be influenced when a motorist drives through an underpass that shields the wind on a gusty day.

Chicago FBI Head Urges Cooperation

Chicago FBI head Roy K. Moore urged closer cooperation between local law enforcement agencies and federal agencies in a speech to more than 200 law enforcement officials last week.

Moore delivered the principal address to the annual convention of the Illinois Sheriff's Association in Chicago.

Sheriffs, former sheriffs and other law enforcement officials from throughout the state attended the convention.

3 Carnivals To Fight Muscular Dystrophy

Carnivals for Muscular dystrophy have been popping up all over the Northwest suburbs this summer. Three neighborhood carnivals are being planned for August by area youngsters.

Today, Jimmy and Jeff Dittman and Bucky Strickler are featuring a Toss Across, swimming, Jarts, bean toss and hot dogs at 412 N. Windsor, Arlington Heights, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Events at a Tuesday carnival will include peewee bowling, frisbee toss and a spook house, when Carl and Curt Degner and Joe Forsthoffer kick off their benefit from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. at 316 N. Mozart, Palatine.

A group effort by five girls and two boys will feature an imitation of the Sonny and Cher television show when they present their carnival Aug. 25 and 26. The event will include games and prizes and will run from 1 to 4 p.m. both days at 647 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

According to the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, 28,143 carnivals held by children last year raised approximately $755,660 for research and patient service programs.

Waste Disposal Plan Prepared By NIPC

A plan for optimum disposal of solid wastes in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area is being prepared by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

The study, expected to be completed within this fiscal year, will seek methods of waste disposal which can be most economically used and will recommend generalized areas as potential sites for future sanitary landfills.

Once the plan and a series of alternatives to the main recommendations is complete, the proposal will be presented to the public for reactions, NIPC Chief Engineer Joseph Smedile said.

Smedile, who reported on the plan to the NIPC planning committee Wednesday, said data for the plan has been collected in recent years.

A PRELIMINARY report inventorying the state of solid waste collection and disposal across the country and particularly within the northeastern Illinois area has been completed, he said.

The report includes a survey of costs for various communities in the six-county metropolitan area, and a chart showing existing landfill and incinerator sites where communities in the area dispose of their waste.

The plan itself will carry the data collected in the report one step further in estimating volumes of solid waste which will have to be disposed of in the future and in seeking the least expensive way to dispose of the solid waste, he said.

Smedile said selection of new landfill and incinerator sites is "touchy," but he said the mapping of potential landfill sites would only be for generalized areas and not for specific pieces of property.

He said most counties in the state have similar studies of the solid waste disposal problem under way and the state is also working on a statewide proposals.

A Little Traveling Music, Please–For Hersey's Band

The Hersey High School band will be doing plenty of traveling this year for performances.

The band's first appearance of the 1972-73 school year will be before school starts on Aug. 11 in Springfield. The band, which last year was named "Governor's Band" at the Illinois State Fair, will participate in opening ceremonies at this year's fair that day.

At the end of the month, the band will also march in the Chicago Lake-Front Festival "King Neptune" parade.

On Sept. 17, the band will travel to Detroit, Mich. to present the half-time show at the first home game for the Detroit Lions. Also in September, the band will defend its title in Illinois State University's Band Day competition at Bloomington.

In October the band will appear in a state marching band competition at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. Last year they won the "grand champion" award as best field marching band of the day at the contest.

The band will also march in Chicago's annual Columbus Day parade and the annual Christmas parade in Arlington Heights during the fall.

On New Year's Day, the band will march in the 1973 Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, Tex., along with other bands from the nation.

On Feb. 3, the band will perform in the 24th annual Northwest Band Clinic in Moorhead, Minn., where the Hersey Symphonic Winds will be featured in two of the grand concerts sponsored by the college.

Suburbs' Share In Fines: $272,637

Northwest suburban communities have received a total of $272,637.10 in fines collected by the Cook County Circuit Court so far this year.

Most of the revenue rebated to the municipalities results from fines levied in traffic cases, according to Matthew J. Danaher, clerk of the court.

The figures reflect the communities' share of the revenue through the month of June.

Arlington Heights received a total of $41,037.50 to date this year as compared to $47,558.50 during the same period in 1971. In June alone, Arlington Heights received $7,111 in revenue from the court.

Buffalo Grove received $381 in June, bringing that community's revenue so far this year to $3,327. During the same period last year Buffalo Grove received $3,496 in revenue.

DES PLAINES has received fines totaling $59,154 so far this year as compared to $50,989 last year for the first half of the year. In June Des Plaines received $10,213 from the fines.

Elk Grove Village fines brought $11,259 to the village in June for a total of $54,644 so far this year. Last year fines totaled $59,134 for the same six-month period.

Hoffman Estates showed an increase to $16,224 for the first six months of 1972 as compared to $13,892 in the same period in 1971. June brought $1,758 to Hoffman Estates.

Mount Prospect totals through June reached $17,885. But in 1971 the village collected $21,006 during the same period. June revenue for the village was $3,136.

Palatine collected $3,055 in June to bring the six-month total up to $20,725.50. Last year the village collected $26,192 during the same period.

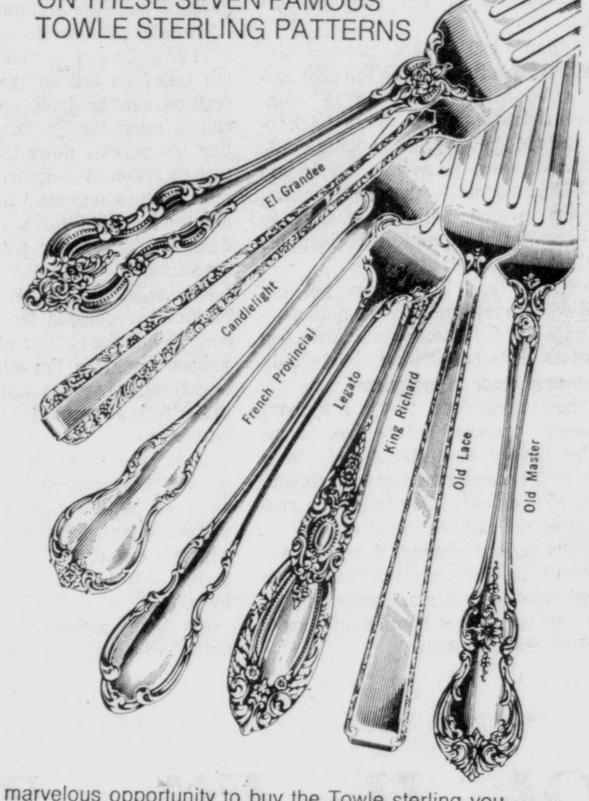

ROLLING MEADOWS has received revenue totaling $13,095.50 from the courts so far this year with a June total of $2,200. For the first six months last year the city collected $14,620.

Schaumburg fines totaled only $33,901.60 so far this year as compared to $45,595 last year for the same period. In June Schaumburg received $8,151 in fine reimbursements.

Wheeling collected $1,996 in June to bring this year's total to $12,643 as compared to $13,353 for the same period in 1971.

Mayor Reclaims His Authority

Politics As Usual: Daley Is Back

by BOB LAHEY

Mayor Daley was back in business at the same old pop stand Saturday.

He returned in triumph to claim the seat from which he had been rudely displaced by a bunch of rebels in the national convention of his party.

And as in so many meetings in which the heavy hand of Mayor Daley has been prevalent, everybody knew what the results were going to be before the chairman, Rep. Clyde Choate of Anna, ever banged his gavel to start the proceedings.

There was an "agreed" list of candidates for the six places to be filled on the Democratic National Committee and each of Mayor Daley's cohorts, from Chicago or Downstate would follow the party line, making the polling of the delegation little more than a formality.

In the end, as he knew, the leading candidate of the suburban Democrats who claim a third of the Democratic voting strength in Illinois would be out, a distant runner-up to the six winners.

But for all of that, there was evidence in the elected slate of a new direction in Democratic politics — while Daley approved the six winners, there were concessions.

THE SIX WINNERS included three black national committeeman ever elected by Illinois Democrats), three downstaters and one suburbanite. Among the women were the single suburban resident, Margaret (Peggy) Gordon of Glencoe; one Daley patronage worker, Jane Byrne, Chicago commissioner of consumer affairs; and the "youth" delegate, Penny Lee Severns of Decatur, a perky 20-year-old who is studying government at Southern Illinois University.

The others elected were John Karns Jr. of Belleville, former Constitutional Convention delegate and ex-state's attorney of St. Clair County, and John Rednour of DuQuoin, president of the Democratic County Chairman's Association.

Partee led the voting with 150½ of a possible 180 votes. Rednour finished six, with 121½ votes.

The first runner-up was Rep. Daniel M. Pierce of Highland Park, who gathered 40½ votes from among "independent" Democrats, mostly from the suburbs.

Pierce was nominated by Rep. John Matejevich of North Chicago, who pointed out that he had come close to blows with Ald. William Singer, leader of the faction which unseated Daley, in a discussion over Pierce at the Miami convention.

The dispute arose between them, said Matejevich, when he was informed that Pierce was "unacceptable" to Singer because of his support of seating the Daley delegation.

"DAN PIERCE has worked for the Democratic Party; he has worked for women's right; he was an original member of Project 18 (to give 18-year-olds the right to vote); he has introduced and fought for legislation for minority rights," said Matejevich of Pierce.

More importantly, he declared, "We need suburban representation if we are to win elections in the suburbs."

Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights, seconding Pierce's nomination, declared that while Mrs. Gordon was a suburbanite, there was no representation on the agreed list from the five counties surrounding Cook, and representing most of one-third of Illinois Democrats.

Pierce's nomination was also seconded by Newton N. Minow of Glencoe, former commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission, and Hubert J. (Bud) Loftus of Addison.

Pierce, however, got little support from Downstate or Chicago Democrats, although Partee did him the courtesy of voting for Pierce instead of himself.

Pierce got nearly solid support from all delegates from the 10th and 12th Congressional Districts, which include most of the Northwest suburbs, with the exception of Mrs. Gordon, who voted for the agreed slate including herself, and Robert Eisner of Evanston.

They included Minow, Mrs. Chapman, Frank Cicero Jr. of Evanston, Rep. Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, alternate Jane Perlman of Wilmette (voting for Michael S. Devorkin of Skokie), alternate Lucille Gallagher of Arlington Heights (voting for Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James L. McCabe), teacher Robert C. Grabitz of Arlington Heights, and Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove.

Pierce, who never takes himself too seriously, cast his votes for Partee, Mrs. Gordon, Peoria County chairman Larry Johnson, Karns, and for "Pierce, if he needs me."

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

MIAMI BEACH—The still explosive issue of abortion took up more than two hours of the Democratic (half-million-dollar-a-day) Convention here — and exposed presidential candidate and former Methodist pastor, George McGovern, as something less than Joe Clean The Straight Arrow. "St. George of the Plains" told this writer on May 11, during an exclusive interview, that he was opposed to denying abortions to victims of rape, incest and threat to health.

Yet when he addressed the Women's Caucus at the Convention here, he pointedly ignored questions on the subject (which President Richard Nixon has undeniably made into a Presidential issue.) McGovern also told the press conference that he was opposed to the following minority report to the Democratic Platform:

"In matters relating to human reproduction, each person's right to privacy, freedom of choice and individual conscience should be fully respected, consistent with relevent Supreme Court decisions."

Both Betty Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and Jaqueline Ceballos of the National Organization for Women, told this writer of widespread pressure from McGovern headquarters to keep this plank off the platform.

But the vaunted discipline of the McGovern machine, which plowed under such hoary stalwarts as Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley and President George Meany of the AFL-CIO, came apart on this maneuver.

No less than 1,101 of the 2,673 delegates rebelled and came within 471 votes of hammering this plank onto the platform.

DELEGATIONS FROM California, New York, Illinois, New Jersey — and even Massachusetts — among others, voted in favor of the pro-abortion plank.

This unprecedented action should be of particular interest to the National Council of Churches — whose black militant staff members and certain General Board members have been able to forestall any pro-abortion resolutions, allegedly in the name of the black community.

For there was by no means any black-white separation on this vote, with large numbers of blacks (especially women delegates) supporting the pro-abortion plank.

For instance, there was the convention's beauteous Vice-Chairman, California legislator Yvonne Brathwaite Burke of Los Angeles, a candidate for Congress. Recently Minnesota's ultraconservative unofficial Catholic periodical, "The Wanderer," headlined a protest of her support of liberalized abortion laws. Yet, when asked about this protest, which the Wanderer's reportage seems to suggest was something on the scale of the Watts riot, Mrs. Burke laughed and recalled:

"One lady called a press conference, denounced abortion, and then went home. We felt sorry for her, so we sent over some soft drinks."

A SIMILAR farce was provided by Hollywood actress Shirley MacLaine, a California delegate who, from her gyrations on this issue seems to be as cute and politically profound as Shirley Temple Black.

After a round-house brawl on the abortion issue during the pre-Convention platform hearings in Washington, D.C., Miss MacLaine said, "My whole point was to get abortion off the platform so George (McGovern) wouldn't have to run with it."

But when Miss MacLaine addressed the convention — having been announced as an opponent of the pro-abortion plank, she advised all delegates to vote their conscience. (She subsequently declined to tell this writer just how she herself had voted.)

But just prior to mounting the convention podium, glamorous Shirley had been confronted and pointedly advised by New York's imposing congresswoman, Bella ("The Hat") Abzug.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Now that you and Bobby Wolff and Bobby Goldman have added the World's mixed team championship to your two open World titles it might be nice to run some hands from the matches."

Jim: "Haven't you put the cart before the horse? A mixed team is usually just as strong as the female half and full credit should go to Betsy Wolff, Heidi Noland of Lake Charles, Louisiana, and Nancy Alpaugh of New Orleans, who really carried us through. Here is a hand played by Heidi."

Oswald: "It doesn't look as though there was much play to the hand. All Heidi had to do was draw trumps and set up dummy's fifth heart for the 13th trick."

Jim: "I guess I should have said 'Bid,' not 'played.' She certainly bid decisively to get to the grand slam. The other North-Shore pair barely staggered into six."

Oswald: "The difference between six and seven was 500 points, which is worth 11 IMPs. The grand slam was well worth bidding since it would make against any 3-3 or 4-2 break in hearts or if one opponent held five hearts and at least four diamonds."

Jim: "Right. In that case the man with all those red cards would be caught in a squeeze."

Brother Leo V. Ryan, provincial counselor and director of education for the Clerics of St. Viator in Arlington Heights, has been named to the Catholic Archdiocesan School Board.

His appointment by John Cardinal Cody, archbishop of the archdiocese, to a three-year term is effective in September. A priest, a nun and two laywomen also were named to the board.

They were chosen from a group of 14 nominees submitted by a special lay-clergy committee.

Job Skills Needed Where Books Fail

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many Jane and Joe Smarts going back to high school will study history, English and assorted subjects.

They're not going to college, so it's fair to ask — what are they going to do after high school?

They're forgetting to take some subjects of a nature that will help them get a job. Like typing, learned to an acceptable office practice skill. Like, almost anything one would need to help earn one's living beyond floor-sweeping, cutting grass, waiting on tables, babysitting.

Jane and Joe are not alone in their dunce boat. Some of their classmates headed for college will get accepted, go, and before the freshman year is over, one-third of them will have dropped out. They will be in the same job market as Jane and Joe — and just as ill-prepared.

Such a problem is on the mind of the National Advisory Council on Vocational Education.

Vocational education is the job skill part of school. The council was created by the Congress through the Vocational Education Amendments of 1968. It is composed of 21 persons appointed by the President from diverse backgrounds in labor, management and education.

In its latest report, the council complains about the poor quality of counseling and guidance services in schools today, especially in the high schools. Counseling and guidance aren't keeping up with education and the changing times. As a result, job skills aren't universal among high school graduates.

Lawrence Davenport, chairman of the council, explains that guidance and counseling is a useful tool for providing young people with the information and advice needed to make intelligent career choices.

"If the information is restrictive and out-of-date as the case seems to be then the guidance role could do more harm than good," says Davenport.

The council is recommending that guidance programs be improved — and swiftly. As matters now stand, there are 475 students to every high school counselor; 3,500 to every grade school counselor. And matters, as inadequate as they are, may worsen. In this period of money shortages for school purposes, guidance frequently among "frills" cut.

Dr. Calvin Dellefield, executive director of the council, said the major problem is guidance. Such counseling he explained in an interview helps a student know himself — and be realistic about opportunities.

Not going to college is on a scale with failure, however. Most high school courses are aimed at the youngster heading for college. That's a situation that's out of balance with reality, according to Dellefield.

Consider: Over 750,000 drop out of high school each year; over 850,000 drop out of college each year. Yet — fewer than one in every high school students is enrolled in a vocational education course.

"The prime legacy being left to today's youth is the certainty of uncertainty," the council says. "The major thing youth knows for sure is that change is coming —and at an increasingly rapid rate. Change in the nature of occupations, in skill levels required for job entry, and changes in work values."

Within their career lifetime, they may expect to change occupations somewhere between five and seven times.

Dellefield said parents can help by analyzing their attitudes toward college. They must recognize the university route is not the only one to success.

If they give children the notion that college is the only way, then the children will be stamped with failure if they don't go to college.

The council, calling for a total effort to improve the guidance programs, suggests the following reforms:

—That state departments of education require work experience outside of education for all school counselors who work with students and prospective students of vocational education. Hands-on experience, so they would know what they're talking about when they get to advising on the work-a-day world.

—Individuals with rich backgrounds of experience in business, industry, and labor, but with no teaching experience be infused into the counseling systems. They would bring a practical touch to the scene. Successful plumbers, builders, electricians, store managers.

—Immediate efforts to lower the counselor-pupil ratio in elementary, secondary and post secondary educational institutions. Only then will all who need counseling and guidance receive such services — when they need them.

—That job placement and follow-up services be considered major part of counseling and guidance programs.

Sex Advice: Do Doctors Give The Help Wanted?

by DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only 2 per cent of 914 representative doctors queried in a survey said their patients never asked them for sexual advice. That left 98 per cent who are solicited for such advice.

The survey confirmed the medical profession's impression that it is a favorite recourse for the sexually troubled. It also renewed the doubts of critics as to its competence in such matters.

Sixty-one per cent of questioned doctors said doctors in general were not as competent as they should be. However, about 75 per cent considered themselves to be fully qualified.

The survey design excluded advice on contraception, abortion, and organic disease; thus the survey questions and answers pertained only to sexual practices and their psychological and social rebounds.

It was conducted by the professional journal, "Medical Opinion," which published the results along with the newest findings of Dr. Sherwyn M. Woods if the University of Southern California Medical School.

They fortified his position that generally speaking doctors are NOT competent to deal with non-organic sexual troubles. It is the position of a number of medical educators. They advocate improved teaching at the undergraduate level and postgraduate courses for doctors in practice.

Woods made in-depth studies of 113 senior medical students whom he took to be representative of both students and practicing doctors. He found that "A large number of physicians feel inadequate in their knowledge of normal and disordered sexuality."

This sense of inadequacy, he said, "is compounded by anxiety, guilt and shame in their own sex life." Furthermore, these doctors and future doctors are not sensitive enough to "great social difference in sexual attitudes, values and behaviors — they would apply their own personal standards, however narrow.

Over half the studied students felt their medical education "had failed to significantly increase their understanding of human sexuality," he said. "While they felt they had an adequate fund of knowledge about anatomy, physiology and organic dysfunctions, they indicated a strong feeling of deficiency in the understanding of sexual psychology."

It is not true that medical students educate themselves with personal experiences. For one thing, the demands made upon them by the courses keep them fully occupied — they haven't the time.

According to Woods, "The popular view of the medical student as sexually irresponsible and wild is a myth. The vast majority exhibit sexual behavior that could more appropriately be described as inhibited. A significant percentage are still virgins."

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — The current argument at our house is the relationship between hypertension and the incidence of obesity. The arguments have now evolved to include strokes, coronaries and diabetes.

My contention is that obesity predisposes to all of the above mentioned, but my husband knows several thin people with high blood pressure, and never believes anything I say on general principles, so I am unable to convince him there is any relationship. Please comment on this for us.

Dear Reader — I hate to interject myself into the fun and games of the limited warfare of marriage, but medical science is on your side. Most problems that occur because of high blood pressure are caused by fatty deposits in the arteries (atherosclerosis). This is how high blood pressure causes strokes. Both strokes and coronaries are caused by atherosclerosis. One simply involves the arteries to the brain and the other the arteries to the heart.

While there are many exceptions, which explains why your husband is making his accurate observation, as a group people who are overweight have a higher incidence of atherosclerosis and a higher incidence of diabetes.

There are some fat people, however, who don't have any of these things and there are some skinny people who do. If it were as simple as looking at a person to see if he was fat or not doctors wouldn't have to do any laboratory tests or a lot of other studies that are commonly done.

Nevertheless, obesity is associated with an increased incidence of a host of medical problems, including strokes, coronaries, diabetes and even postoperative complications to a hysterectomy or a gallbladder operation.

There is hardly anything that obesity helps unless it is a survival in the arctic. The reason life insurance companies want to know how much a person weighs is because the fat person has a greater likelihood of a medical disorder or early death than the individual of normal weight.

Classic Hairstyles In Updated Versions

Updated versions of some well-remembered classic looks are what's coming up this fall and winter in hairstyles. It should come as no surprise.

Keyed to fall/winter fashions for women, hairstyles like clothes continue to be described as elegant with soft undertones of simplicity, freedom and comfort.

The general emphasis is away from the windblown au naturel look of the shag and focused instead on the old standby that intermittently appears on the scene . . . the pageboy. Easy-to-care-for is still a primary factor and curls have not diminished in popularity.

THE NATIONAL Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association recently introduced its American hair fashions for fall and winter of 1972-73 during the Association's national convention in Palm Springs, Calif.

One contemporary look, appropriately labeled Ms. America, is a graceful style that is long, but off the shoulder. The Ms. America takes the familiar pageboy line, but adds the enhancement of curls and waves about the face. The noticeable feature about this hairstyle is the return to the center part.

Barrettes of all sizes and shapes are currently back in fashion and can be used to further individualize many of the new cuts and to offer an evening look that is different from the basic day-to-day style.

The Contemporary Classic, another traditional look by NHCA, is a free-form fashion that ranges from the classic pageboy to a smoothie reminiscent of a bob. A curling iron comes in handy in setting this cut to achieve a form of the much remembered marcel wave.

THE U.S. SOPHISTICATE is a very distinct look that focuses mostly on a front-curled fashion silhouette.

Brushed smooth and close to the head, the Sophisticate is a carefree cap of a coif that has been designed for the career woman who prefers short hair.

A permanent is recommended for this hairstyle in order to keep curls just that — permanent.

Long hairstyles for fall and winter include The Swingin' Single and The American Girl. The latter is long and flowing with a soft wide wave framing the face and ending up in easy curls.

MORE PRONOUNCED, the Swingin' Single cut, for the under-30 crowd, features a layered length of curl, topped with close cropped bangs, tapered around the face and worn smooth from the crown in the fashionable small head look.

Pulled back, pinned up or turned loose and free, this style swings with the shape and class that is born from a good basic haircut. (Photos courtesy of National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.).

Housing Market Reflects Change In Retiree Attitude

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The over-65 population in the United States is expected to increase by 21.5 per cent — or an additional four million senior citizens — by 1980.

This is a big housing market — and one in which significant change is under way.

The statistics, says Charles Rutenberg, president of U.S. Home Corp., one of the nation's largest residential builders, are not the most significant change in the retirement housing market.

"New attitudes held by retirees on what retirement should be are the most meaningful change. Today's retiree has dispelled the idea that retirement and vegetation are synonymous."

Based on firsthand observations and relationships with retirees covering a spectrum of economic, social and psychological levels, Rutenberg says, certain basic patterns are emerging in methodology to serve the wants and needs of the enlightened retiree.

HE SAID U.S. HOME has discerned five major trends in the retirement market which it is incorporating in its own community planning function:

—While a substantial portion of this market prefers a community built and planned for people of their own age and interest groups, the trend is toward living in balanced communities which include young families.

—The retirement market is marked by growing geographic dispersement. At one time, Florida and California accounted for some 80 per cent of this market. Today northern states such as New York, New Jersey and Maryland have become major retirement centers for families who prefer to remain nearer home, children and grandchildren.

—The retiree most often is active and interested in civic and community affairs. Many are putting their valuable experience to work in programs to help youngsters, teen-agers and minority groups.

—THE RETIREE wants a spectrum of recreational facilities but no schedules. This means basic equipment and space should be provided for activities ranging from athletic to cultural, but use of these facilities should be flexible.

—Exercise plays an important role in their lives — and is vital for health maintenance. Geriatric experts recommend walking as the best all-around exercise. In addition to sports facilities, inclusion of attractive malls, walkways and promenades is important in adult communities.

Rutenberg said the success of adult communities depends upon an understanding of what the retiree wants, how he wants it and what psychological adjustments he must make. The retiree, for example, often is ready for a new environment. However, Rutenberg said, in creating this environment for him, it is necessary to provide an atmosphere which stimulates and encourages interest in new activities, without overwhelming him with predetermined schedules.

SOME OF THE results in successful communities, he suggested, are worthy of study by researchers in the field of geriatric psychology. He said couples have gotten together and volunteered to perform valuable civic, municipal and charitable projects; men who once had trouble telling a lens from a light meter suddenly blossom into highly creative amateur photographers; women to whom clay and paint were totally alien produce skillful ceramics.

This significantly youthful characteristic — the desire to learn and do something outside one's experience — is a major factor in the good health enjoyed by residents of many of the more successful adult communities. Medical experts, he said, have long voiced the opinion that mental activity is related to physical well-being.

"These folks keep busy from morning to night and don't take time to think about their age or worry about their health."

EVEN THE MOST casual observer at such communities, Rutenberg said, is struck immediately by the fact the word retirement bears no relationship to the idea of inactivity. In fact, he said, activity, action and participation are hallmarks of the new breed of senior citizen.

"Not only are they active, responsible people," he added, "but even more amazing is the fact that coincident with their move, they become interested in things which are totally new to them."

Rutenberg noted there are two schools of thought as to how much the retiree himself has changed over the last two decades.

"One says that he has changed greatly. The other side of the argument was summed up by the resident of an adult community who said the change isn't great at all. It is just that the natural instincts of the retiree, long bottled up in artificial, unrealistic environments, have come to the surface under the stimulus of planned adult communities where new interests and new avocations are encouraged, not regimented," Rutenberg concluded.

Mom Feels The Pressure

Alice Flaxton, my next door neighbor, rustled the bushes, so I knew she was there before she spoke up.

"I was watching you," she announced as she rose out of the rhododendron. "I wouldn't need a calendar to know this is the second week in August. All I have to do is take a look at you."

"What do you mean by that?" I asked nervously examining a ragged thumb nail.

"You look like you are ready to jump your tracks. But I'm not worried because I know you'll be fine as soon as school starts."

"Shh!" I warned her. "I don't want the children to hear."

"Why? Do you think they will get a rejection complex?

"Well, they might, and it's so difficult to explain why I want school to start. It's not really that I don't want the kids around."

ALICE LAUGHED loudly. "Now that's carrying motherhood a bit far. NOBODY could be that noble."

"Look Alice, it's not nobility. Every spring I actually look forward to school's getting out. It's great not having to get up early, pack lunches, frantically wash Brownie uniforms and go to PTA meetings. Summer vacation is a needed relief."

Alice agreed.

"But, since I look forward to summer so much," I continued, "I don't understand why I fall apart so early in Au gust."

"Your summer is too structured," Alice observed solemnly.

"Too structured!" I exclaimed. "Alice, I can't get anything done! I haven't even done the dishes since last Thursday." My voice broke a little.

"There, there," Alice said soothingly. "You must realize you have been doing too much. If you'll just take stock of the things you do, you'll see I'm right."

"WELL," I BEGAN uncertainly, "Yesterday I took the kids swimming and on a picnic. The day before it was tennis and swimming. The day before that we took a canoe out, and before . . ."

"Keep going, you're doing fine."

"Alice, this is ridiculous. All I do is play," I asked morosely.

"That's exactly what I'm trying to point out." Alice was electric with her soon-to-be triumphant logic.

"I really don't understand."

"It's simple, she said. "You have approximately 10 weeks to swim, sail, fish, hike, picnic, play tennis and plan and carry out a family vacation." Alice stopped and gave me a look that meant the conclusion should be obvious. But it wasn't.

"So?" I asked.

"SO, NOW, IN mid-August when you haven't done all you've planned, the pressure is on. And you know there is an essential thing you have to do before school starts."

"What's that?" I asked, beginning to get on Alice's wave length.

"Hurry up and relax."

Fashion
by Genie

Fashion has something to say for every occasion, sport or event. It just depends upon how much you care. One need not own tennis whites to play a match. Proper dress has no effect on performance . . . only on appearance.

As every sport, skiing, golfing and swimming to name a few, has gradually attracted the masses, clothing manufacturers have been quick in line to promote new fashions and update them each year.

Even bikinis subtly change in styling. This year's favorite model is the three-ringer.

Bicycling, the age-old do-your-own-pedaling kind of transportation, has been the most recent sport to reach status symbol proportions.

Bicycling is often favored over other sports because skill and practice are not required. One needs only a bike (10-speed to be with it) and a bicyling outfit (to look really with it).

SEVERAL SWEATERMAKERS have made way for the new craze by including a group of bicycle-geared tops in their most recent collections. These include a variety of hip-length capes which adequately clear the wheels and spokes.

Capes are layered over matching sweaters which in turn layer over turtleneck tops for extra warmth when cool autumn weather breezes in.

Sme bicyclists, in particular those who have transportation problems, will even be out pedaling this winter.

T-shirts and sweaters with color-slice inserts or placed stripes of very obvious colors are the standard tops for cycling. Women most often couple them with hot pants and knee socks for summer spins when they want to look the part of the well-dressed cyclist.

But watch out for the wide flairs. They can easily become entangled between the spokes. Perhaps bicyclists will ultimately influence a return to straight-legged pants.

FREE-WHEELING STRIPES on bicycle sweater are designed to allow the cyclist to stand out to oncoming traffic.

A Reminder To Brides

With summer weddings in full swing, the Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting the news. Full information is printed on forms available at the Herald Offices.

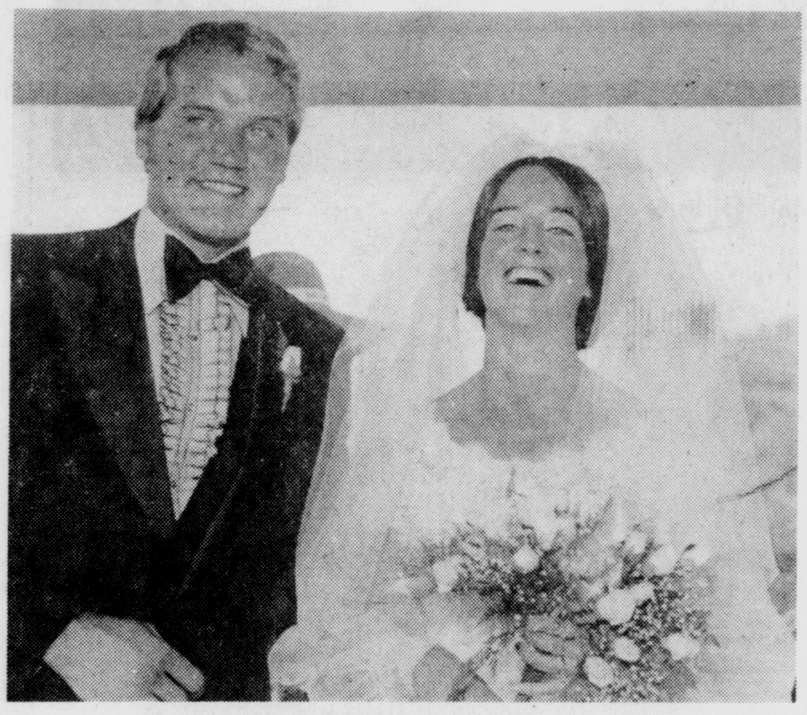

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due in Herald office within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make the selection for you. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

Wedding forms are available at the Herald offices. There is no charge for publishing wedding stories or photos.

Janice Muench Is Married

A romance on the Marquette University campus culminated in marriage on July 15 for Janice Ann Muench of Arlington Heights and Robert Francis Knecht II of North Liberty, Ind.

Janice, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Muench, 124 S. Ridge Ave., is enrolled in a dental hygiene course at Marquette, and her husband is a Marquette graduate now in law school there. His parents are the Robert Knechts of North Liberty.

A large wedding party attended the couple for their afternoon nuptials in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington. Besides Jane Ponsot of Arlington as maid of honor, there were four bridesmaids, a flower girl and ring bearer preceding the bride down the church aisle.

BRIDESMAIDS WERE Mrs. Cathy Muench, Rolling Meadows, the bride's sister-in-law; and Maureen Gorman, Judi Molkup and Valerie Mock, all Arlington friends of Janice's.

Her niece, Christy Muench, 4, of Rolling Meadows, was flower girl and the groom's nephew, 6-year-old Brian Smith of Mishawauka, Ind., was ring bearer.

The girls were all gowned alike in two-toned mint green and white. The bodices were in white lace with long sleeves, the skirts in mint green crepe. The attendants wore white picture hats tied with mint green streamers to match and carried bouquets containing mint green daisies, white roses and baby's breath.

The bride chose a white silk organza gown for her wedding day. The high necked bodice and long sleeves were accented with lace daisies, which also dotted the A-line skirt and formed a border at the hemline. Janice topped her gown with a handmade mantilla veil that was lavishly edged with scalloped lace. She carried gardenias, white roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

JAMES KNECHT came from Rosemount, Minn., to be his brother's best man. The groom's other attendants included the bride's brothers, Greg and Dean Muench; James Norris, Montreal, Canada; Gery Wharton, Harrisonburg, Va.; John Lehker, Lansing, Mich.; Kevin Irwin, Indianapolis; and Gerry Andersson, Anderson, Ind.

During the double ring ceremony, Mrs. Vernon Boman of Arlington sang several selections chosen by the bride and groom.

A reception for 200 guests followed at Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines. The bridal pair then left for a week's honeymoon at Lake of the Ozarks.

They will be making their home in Milwaukee for the next year while they complete work on their degrees.

Janice is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

Strictly A Local Affair

The recent wedding of Linnea Burger and Patrick McDonald Jr. was strictly a local affair in Arlington Heights.

The couple's families and all their wedding attendants live in Arlington with one exception, Michael McDonald, Pat's cousin who lives in Prospect Heights.

Linnea is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Burger, 648 N. Chicago Ave. Pat's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonald of 731 N. Douglas. The young couple grew up in Arlington, Linnea graduating from Arlington High School and Pat from St. Viator High.

They were married July 22 at 6 p.m. in St. James Catholic Church. Candles glowed on the altar as they exchanged vows and rings.

MRS. SANDY GROGMAN, the groom's sister, was matron of honor and Laurie Burger, Linnea's younger sister, was junior bridesmaids. Three of the bride's Arlington friends, Janell Petersen, Caryn Corts and Michele Haas, were bridesmaids.

They were all gowned alike in pink chiffon with an ivory bodice trimmed with Venise lace. They carried large floral balls containing pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Linnea chose an ivory chantilly lace over taffeta gown. The high neckline and long sleeves were accented with tiny pearls. She wore a high portrait headpiece to hold her mantilla veil which was bordered with scalloped lace to match her gown. Her bouquet was of pink tea-roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonald Jr.

Michael McDonald served his cousin as best man.

THE GROOMSMEN INCLUDED the couple's brothers, David Burger and Terry and Thomas McDonald, and Pat's brother-in-law, Roger Grogman.

An evening reception for the newlyweds followed at Howard Johnson's in Palatine. They honeymooned for a week in Florida and are getting settled in an apartment in Buffalo Grove.

Linnea works at Arlington Park Towers. Pat has transferred from St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn., to Loyola's Lewis Towers campus in Chicago.

HUD Advice To Future Home Buyers

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) —Two out of every three buyers select a used house — and the one out of three who buys a new house is likely to purchase one already built.

It's a choice each home buyer must make for himself, but whatever the choice, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has some good advice on "Wise Home Buying."

In a new booklet of that title — a handy pocket-size volume every house hunter would do well to ask for — HUD has suggestions on how to decide whether you are ready for a home, whether you can afford it, where to look for one, what to look for in a home, and your obligations once you own it.

WHETHER you decide on a new or an older home, "once you've found a house you like," HUD advises, evaluate it carefully. You are buying the property 'as is' and you must literally live in as well as with your mistakes."

If it's an older home, HUD recommends a thorough inspection to reveal hidden defects and obvious remodeling needs — and suggests if you have any doubts at all, a $50 or $100 fee for professional inspection will be money well spent. Wiring, heating, plumbing — particularly plumbing that includes a septic tank — are areas where expert advice is particularly helpful.

HOWEVER, HUD warns, if you call in an expert, first check their reputations and beware of unscrupulous operators who may justify their fee by exaggerating flaws they may want to repair at inflated costs.

If it appears repairs and improvements are needed, have a clear understanding as part of any purchase agreement as to what the seller will pay for and what you will have to be responsible for.

HUD SUGGESTS 10 areas that deserve special attention in older houses:

—Termite infestation and wood rot. This calls for expert knowledge and is of extreme importance, especially in areas of the country that have a history of infestation.

—Sagging structure.

—Inadequate wiring. Be sure wiring is in good condition, with adequate amperage and enough electrical outlets.

—Heating plant. Check the general condition of the system and get an estimate of how old it is and how long it can be expected to function.

—Inadequate insulation.

—Faulty plumbing. Try to check with the plumber who last serviced the house. Check for water pressure. If possible, choose a house connected to a public sewer system.

—Hot water heater. Check condition and capacity of system.

—Roof and gutters.

—Wet basements. A basement that's dry in summer can be a different story in spring. Check for signs of water around foundation walls.

Examine condition of outside paint or siding and the paint and paper inside. Be sure windows and doors operate and are not in need of repair. Inspect floor and wall tile and fixtures. Determine if the house plan is, or can be made, suitable for your way of living. Get all available instructions and warranties for equipment, names of service people.

WITH A NEW home, HUD notes, reliability of the builder is an important consideration. A reputable builder is in business for life. Arrange to talk with people who are living in houses constructed by the builder you are considering.

And consider these points:

—Be sure the contract is complete. There should be written agreement on all details of the transaction. Leave nothing to chance, or oral agreement.

—If new street paving, water, sewer lines are involved, know whether you or the builder will pay. Check on charges for water and trash collection.

—Obtain a firm date for completion in the contract.

—Don't be afraid to check construction progress regularly.

—The day before you take title, make a thorough inspection trip.

And remember, there is no such thing as the perfect house, new or old. Just be sure you know where the house you are buying falls short — and that the shortcomings are things you can life with. Then enjoy your home.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I vaguely remember something about what to do for an odor left by a cat "spraying," but can't remember the exact instructions. My granddaughter's cat has been using a certain corner in a room and the odor is terrible. We have used every kind of deodorizer with no success. Do you know?—Mrs. J.B.

As far as I know, there is no solution for certain odors — and one caused by a "spraying" cat is one of them. A faint odor can often be eliminated by covering the area either with the granules used to line kitten boxes or activated charcoal granules. A neutralizing solution with either vinegar or household ammonia helps some. Mr. Edd Frazier finally used a few drops of wintergreen. You know, of course, that humid weather often bring back certain animal odors.

Tip to Young Mothers: So that you don't have to worry about a youngster pulling a plastic bag out of the watebasket and possibly pulling it over himself, tie the bag into one or two knots before throwing it away.

Dear Dorothy: I used to worry about how many ears of corn to cook for my family. Then decided having any left over wouldn't be too bad when found the leftovers could be added to fritters, waffles, pancakes or omelets the next day.—Mrs. Thomas W.

When an occasional ear of corn is left over, I put it on in cold water and let it come to the boiling point. With butter and salt it's almost as good as the first time around.

Let's Broaden Butchers' Hours

It is time to put an end to one of the biggest inconveniences and aggravations facing today's food shopper: the strict hours at the fresh meat counter.

A traditional problem for the suburban shopper, it's underlined more than ever by the new trend in keeping food stores open to midnight, and — in some cases — around the clock.

The new hours have been hailed as a boon to shoppers, and indeed they are. But it's business as usual at the meat counter — which means no business at all after 6 p.m., and never on Sunday.

That contradiction, to say the least, is a vexing one for the shopper, but the butcher's union carried on doggedly in the best tradition of the public be damned.

Typically, both sides — the chain stores and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen of North America — blame the other in the problem.

The chain stores say they've tried for years to get the union to bend in its working hours, and even challenged the situation in court, but to no avail.

The butchers say they've had to wage a bigger battle to get a fair work day for their members, and it's the chain store owners who can't get together to agree what to pay butchers and how to determine hours.

And the butchers do have a weighty court opinion behind them: a 1962 U.S. Supreme Court decision rejecting a Jewel Food Store's contention that the union should not be able to control its own hours and that of the sale of meat as a legal labor objective.

Also, typically, you know who comes out on the short end — the consumer.

Pity the shopper who can't make it to the store during a normal weekday and dreads the usual Saturday rush. No steaks, no chops, no roasts — nothing but sausages and some frozen meat.

The situation is absurd and must be rectified at once, if the butchers and store owners care at all about their customers.

An opportunity is at hand for solution. The current two-year contract between the union and the food store chains expires Oct. 1, and serious negotiations are expected to begin later this month.

The prime objective of those negotiations should be hours — how long the butchers should work, and how the buying public can best be served.

Both sides should openly dedicate themselves to that goal. If they don't, they deserve the wrath of all shoppers — already beleaguered by the spiraling cost of living and repeated scares about tainted food. The least they can expect is some convenience.

Korea's Giant Step

The decision of the two Koreas to start talking with each other after two decades of shouting may have taken the world by surprise, but it did not come totally without warning.

The two regimes already had made gingerly public contact through Red Cross representatives, a very safe and politically noncommittal first step. Those in power in Seoul and Pyongyang may have known there was something more to those civil but stiff initial meetings last year on the Panmunjon neutral ground, but any outside observer who had taken this as the shape of something else to come so rapidly would likely have lost his pundit accreditation on grounds of foolish optimism.

Numerous developments, not all of a Korean nature, produced the changed atmosphere which makes rapprochment possible.

President Nixon's summit diplomacy has initiated dramatic changes in the great power relationships which set the tone, and usually determine the intensity in the case of client states such as the Koreas, for the confrontations of smaller countries.

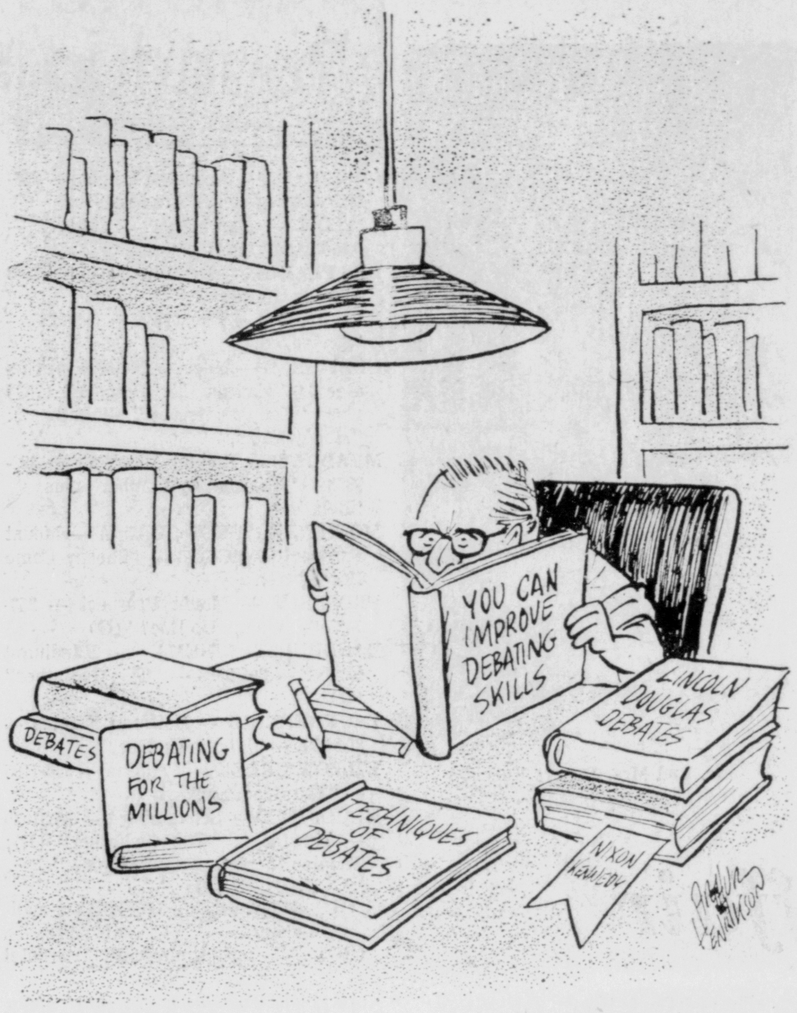

Both North and South Korea have made impressive recoveries from the war that devastated both. Both are able to talk about reunification from positions of considerable internal strength, an equality which removes an element of strain from negotiations.

Not much less surprising than the decision of the Koreans to talk reunification would have been, at one time, the welcome it has received in Washington. Such do-it-themselves diplomacy, which is openly being viewed as presaging a scaling down if not phasing out of significant U.S involvement, would have been viewed as an alarming weakening of the anti-Communist front not so very long ago.

Even today, Korean developments are likely to appear more ominous than optimistic to some who discern little basic change in the world situation during the past two decades. Despite summitry, mellowing regimes and travel and trade relaxations, the Communist enemy is as inimical as ever.

Nevertheless, times change, even in power politics. President Park's Seoul regime, acting largeon its own, would appear to be very much in step with President Nixon's diplomacy of reconciliation on the global scale. The reunification gesture, whatever its eventual result, at least has the virtue of allied consistency.

Tom Wellman's Column

Somewhere There's A VP

EDITOR'S NOTE: the following column was prepared Thursday. Since then, the Democrats may have picked a successor to Thomas Eagleton. How long he remains on the ticket, however, is another question.

WASHINGTON, November 6, 1972 — President Richard Nixon today ordered the Presidential election postponed, at least for a month.

In a brief statement, Nixon said "the election might be delayed until early 1973" unless the Democrats could come up with a Vice Presidential candidate before then.

Snickering slightly as he read the announcement, the President said an obscure law requires both major parties to present a full ticket to the voters.

Nixon said he has been in constant communications with Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern and Herman Blzlk, acting head of the Democratic National Committee.

Blzlk, formerly an unemployed spot welder from Paramus, New Jersey, was appointed titular head of the Democratic National Committee two days ago after Theodore Sorenson, former Presidential adviser, resigned from the post.

Sorenson quit after he was offered the vice presidential spot on the ticket. However, Washington syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported exclusively that Sorenson had failed to pay a parking ticket in 1955 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Following the disclosure, leading newspapers and top Democratic contributors assailed Sorenson, and McGovern sugested that, for the sake of party unity, Sorenson step down. Sorenson, agreed and retired from politics.

Sorenson is he tenth successive candidate for the post. Others who have been appointed, then stepped down under pressure, include:

—Lawrence O'Brien, whom Anderson disclosed had failed to break the revenue stamp on a bottle of gin in 1963;

—Edmund Muskie, whom the press reported had failed to disclose to

Tom Wellman

McGovern that he had been in Walter Reade Army Hospital in Washington in 1960 for hang nail surgery.

—Kevin White, former Boston mayor, who had been charged by columnists with attending a panel discussion in 1967 which included various left-leaning long-haired youth and politicians.

—R. Sargeant Shriver, who was accused by Anderson of suffering migraine headaches in 1962 while head of the Peace Corps under President John F. Kennedy.

Deliberations on selecting vice presidential candidates have been impeded in each case by the Illinois deadlock. Both the Mayor Daley and Singer-Jackson factions of the state party have been unable to agree on which faction should represent the party; the problem has been tied up in the courts since the summer national convention.

Most top Democratic officials were unavailable for comment after today's Nixon announcement. Reached in Bison, South Dakota, McGovern said he would react after he consulted with members of the Democratic National Committee — "if there are any left," he commented.

"I might even sit this one out," he chuckled. Reporters observed that his jowls had been sagging recently and some of his close associates have been referring to him as "hizzoner." Some ascribe the changes to pressure from George Meany.

Since the announcement, rumors have circulated in Washington circles that Nixon's next move is to name himself "king," due to the lack of Democratic opposition. Officials close to his throne — oops, office — have denied the story.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Child Control Needed

"The Games People Play" — an interesting title of a not-so-old-tune — and very appropriate for a number of suburban homeowners and their children.

Here's how it works: First you situate yourself near a homeowner who has a grown family, children in college, or who are fully employed. Then you size up the surroundings — nice big yard, peaceful, no one around, "This is just right for me and the kids," surmises the newcomer. Not soon after, it all begins — the police have a name for it — it's called "general harassment." The mother or parents shut themselves from the outside world in their air-conditioned "pad." They play cards, watch TV, chat on the phone, or just lounge around in the cool comfort of their home, and let the kids outside loose. If they have one "lonely" child, he is welcome to invite anyone off the village streets to play with — they yell and scream to their heart's content as long as they're not under foot. Occasionally, the parents imbibe — have a nip — which helps to fog the brain, and makes them oblivious to any outside noises — this helps considerably — puts them far out in "orbit."

If you complain, they get belligerent, ostracize you as a "crab" and "child-hater." If the little "dears" (some of them come in big sizes, 13-14 years of age) run all over your yard, tease the dog, if you have one, they are letting off "playful energy" and are lovingly mischievous. If you, as a last resort, ask the police for help, the mothers pass the word via telephone and you are then on the "poison list."

By this time, the pressure is on, and in full force, picking up tempo. The children, with mother's blessings, are doing as they please, unrestrained. Of course, it would be a shame to give them a "mean mother complex" and have them grow up as inhibited neurotics. This is the name of the game — the big squeeze-play.

I, personally, know of three decent neighbors — a credit to this community — who sold out, and moved from their lovely landscaped homes (village officials take note) rather than aggravate themselves to death or insanity with bull-headed parents. Another good neighbor had to undergo psychiatric treatment as a direct result of ill-mannered children with arrogant parents.

My children grew up in this community, however, we have been on the defensive now for over 12 years. I don't really gad about, as I deplore gossip and keep myself busy with social work off and on, if my health permits. In my case, it started with bold trespassing; when I put up a fence to keep my baby from roaming some 10 years ago, I suddenly was surrounded with an air of hostility. What really surprised me was seeing a mother short-cutting through the yard dragging a youngster behind her. If the lawn looked a little too neat, then came the littering, breaking of flowers, cracking new hedges, and of course I cannot overlook the "habitual borrower." When you are annoyed, he goes elsewhere spreading his assassination of character, and Presto! You have a new enemy.

Today, I am still resisting, but a word to the wise — if all the civic-minded groups really took a good look at the hate, bigotry, and animosity which is deeply rooted in the neglected yards of their weed-growing neighbors, it would not be necessary to point at smut-peddlers or corrupt politicians and accuse solely one or the other. These vice-lords just took over where the parents left off, you rest your camel where you find the oasis or fertile grounds.

The prime solution should begin in the cradle with the parents — CONTROL THE CHILDREN, NOW, BEFORE THEY CONTROL YOU. Society is already paying a bitter price. Do you care?

Baseball Procedures Hit

Open letter to parents of boys in Arlington Heights boys' baseball.

Many letters have been written on the pros and cons of the Arlington Heights Boys' Baseball League. This is a letter from a group of concerned parents about the integrity and competency of the administration of this league. We are particularly concerned about the rules and protest committee. Many cases of prejudiced and biased decisions have come to our attention.

A rules and protest committee should be a completely impartial group. In the case of the AHBBL rules and protest committee there are members of this committee who are personally involved with teams and, in some cases, sons as players.

Impartiality with committee members such as this is impossible. A case in point was a protest that was ruled on by one committee member one hour after the game was over — without benefit of a committee hearing. In another case a prejudiced decision was made against a team manager, thus forcing him to resign. These are only two incidents — you may know of many more.

As parents we all want the chance for our boys to play organized baseball. In order to achieve this, we all must actively participate in the basic make-up of this league. In essence, the league has been an asset to Arlington Heights and the boys involved. But there is room for improvement.

There are questions that need to be answered — what are the procedures concerning the selection of the nominating committee, the elections, and the appointments of committee members. Also, what is the financial status of the league. These are only a few areas in question.

To have these questions answered we are appealing to you as parents, to attend the AHBBL board meeting on Monday, August 21, at 100 N. Douglas (behind Recreation Park) at 8:00 p.m.

We hope to see you there.

Waldheim Blasted

Our esteemed U.N. Secretary Waldheim, like the previous troublesome U. Thant, leaps on the bandwagon to provoke the populace in accusing the United States of bombing the dikes in North Vietnam.

Waldheim is ready to point the finger of accusation at the United States with glee, whether true or false. For a diplomat ready to accuse is a poor excuse for a U. N. secretary.

His predecessor was of the same ilk, ready to find fault with our United States but praising its enemies with a satisfied smirk.

Fire Dept. Service 'Unexcelled'

This is in reply to the anonymous letter in Monday's Herald relative to the activities of the Elk Grove Village Fire Department during and following the storm of July 14th.

Is the writer aware that insurance rates in a community are based in large part on the effectiveness of the fire service? Does he know the performance of the fire department is based not only on manpower, equipment, training, etc. but also on their ability to perform salvage duties and thereby prevent greater loss than might be caused only by fire?

How would the writer of Monday's letter feel if his property were damaged by storm and he received no assistance from the fire department?

If it were not for the efficient fire service in Elk Grove Village our insurance rates would be almost prohibitive. One has only to observe the day to day activities of the Elk Grove Fire Department to know the service is unexcelled.

Water's Cost

Your July 25 article concerning the possibility of raising our water rates to pay for Chicago water didn't faze me one bit. Right now we are paying utility taxes in amounts equal to, or greater than, any proposed costs chargeable to us when we get Lake Michigan water. At least we will be getting the water.

I trust the utility tax will be eliminated a soon as practicable, since the justification for it is just about gone.

'Let Voters Set Housing'

In the Chicago Daily News issue of July 24, there is an article, "Suburbs Map Housing Plan."

This is supposed to be a voluntary program for distributing low and moderate income housing throughout the suburbs, including Mount Prospect.

Mr. Jack Pahl, a N.I.P.C. commissioner, is, I believe, spokesman for the mayors of 12 suburban villages. As I understand it, he is trying to get these villages to provide this housing so eventually there will be no legal action brought against these villages by the A.C.L.U. of Chicago to force the villages to provide low cost housing.

We believe the voters of each village should decide if they want low cost housing and not the mayors or the A.C.L.U. Have American citizens now lost their right to govern themselves?

Mr. Pahl emphasized that more than one half of the need for low cost housing is for senior citizens. As a senior citizen, I disagree very strongly against Mr. Pahl's statement. As to his statement — "My daughter can't afford to live in my community, she can't afford the rent" — this doesn't make much sense. Statistics will show when children reach that age a majority of them leave home and move away.

If low income housing will be forced on Mount Prospect, then force it upon such suburbs as Barrington Hills, Winnetka and other suburbs where the very rich live. If any federal judge forces the low cost housing against certain villages and not against all villages, then we have a federal dictatorship. In Chicago Today issue of July 24, is an article stating, "The federal government refused to join a plan by the A.C.L.U. to build public housing in the suburbs."

Word-A-Day

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — A young professional man in Dallas whose 32-year-old wife died following a penicillin reaction learned quite accidentally that a life insurance policy they'd dropped several years before was good for almost $2,000. Also that four young children could receive Social Security.

A 58-year-old woman in Victoria, Tex., learned two months after burying her husband that she could recover two payments on the new car and the credit insurance policy would take care of the remaining monthly payments.

Sooner or later everyone suffers a death in the immediate family and often doesn't think straight about business matters because of emotion and grief.

THAT'S WHERE Survivors Optional Service of Athens, Tex. comes into the picture, a service now available at 103 banks in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and New Mexico. SOS, which expects to have 1,000 banks in its network within the next year, because of possible expansion in Missouri, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida, specializes in seeing that surviving families get all the benefits to which they are entitled. And that covers a lot of ground and red tape.

Death benefits stem from Social Security, Veterans Administration, life insurance policies, profit-sharing plans, Civil Service, railway retirement plans, teachers' benefits, Workmen's Compensation, pension plans, credit life insurance and many other agencies and plans.

At SOS banks offering the service at no charge or fee, bankers trained in survivor benefits work directly with the families. They provide information needed to file claims, notify sources and assist in obtaining specific information.

In most instances you don't need to be a customer of the bank to use the service.

BOSSIER BANK & Trust Co., Bossier City, Ia., which recently added the service, is working with several people who lost close relatives. As a beginning, they give them check lists and ask them to return with insurance policies and other relevant documents.

The case of a dentist who died not long ago in Athens, Tex. indicates what benefits can be missed. The local SOS bank suggested, as a matter of routine, that his children go through the last three years of his canceled checks. Try to find any checks he might have written to insurance companies for which the family could find no policies, the bank said.

Sure enough, the checks showed he had paid annual premiums on two different policies, one for $2,000 going back to dental school days and another for $10,000. They probably would not have recovered either since the companies weren't aware of the death.

"What we're doing is getting people many legitimate benefits that have been overlooked in the heartache moments," explained J. W .Walker Jr., president and founder of SOS.

A LITTLE BIT of San Francisco was in the area recently as this replica of one of the city's famed cable cars toured in the name of Prescolite Manufacturing Corp., visiting architects and promoting lighting products. Driven by Craig Eggleston of Park Ridge, the replica is on a nationwide tour. Prescolite has a plant in Elk Grove Village, at 1951 Landmeier Rd.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

To buy shares in a no-load mutual fund, until recently, required a good deal of detective work. Those "no-loads," in which the investor can buy shares without paying the usual 8.5 per cent sales charge, seemed to be as elusive as mallards on the second day of duck season.

That's changing. The investors are now becoming the ducks and the no-loads the hunters — and they have the equipment to bring home some ducks.

That's the case, at least, with four former load funds that have now converted to no-loads, dropping a 1,200-man sales force in the process. They comprise the Denver-based Financial Program fund complex, a subsidiary of Gates Rubber Co. Though they've dropped their sales force — along with the "load" of commission — they aren't planning on dropping any sales.

FIRST, THEY'VE installed "reverse WATS lines" in the Denver office, so that anyone can call without charge from anywhere in the country by dialing one of the toll-free "800" numbers. A staff of 150, backed up by a computer system, will be on hand to answer questions of shareholders or potential investors, or take orders. Orders can be placed and confirmed by phone, with payment due in five days, in the same manner that brokerage-firm customers place phone orders for stocks.

And, to get the public to the phone, the four Financial Programs funds will make heavy use of direct mail and media advertising. James O. Richards, executive vice-president and head of marketing, says advertising will be placed "in the usual publications, and in some unusual publications," to reach potential investors who've hitherto gone unnoticed.

All the constitutes a radical switch in policy for a no-load fund. The traditional modus operandi has been for the no-loads to sit more or less quietly in the office, gratefully receiving orders from any investors who exercised the initiative to locate a few no-load funds, write away for their propectuses and finally nudge themselves into filling out an order form.

THE LARGER no-load funds probably can be expected to follow suit after watching this operation for a time to see if Financial Programs' new aggressiveness pays off. But what's even more interesting and significant is that, if company officials are right, many of the load funds will be forced to follow suit.

The load funds simply haven't been selling enough shares to stay healthy and alive, if their "net redemptions" problem continues. The FP group, probably typical, had as load funds been liquidating more share than were sold each month since early 1971.

FP President Donald C. Campbell, in announcing the conversion to a no-load operation, said a comprehensive analysis of mutual fund industry trends revealed "a very strong change in the attitude of the investor," and concluded: "We believe that the old method of selling mutual funds is no longer valid."

The move to convert from load to no-load — accompanied, no doubt, by the new aggressive marketing techniques — is something that Richards foresees "will exist throughout the industry within a relatively short time."

Two years ago, only four in every 100 mutual fund investors owned no-load shares. Today that has increased, but still only about 12 per 100. If the prediction above should materialize, most of the country's shareholders would own no-load shares — certainly a new and different day for investors, large and small

Elimination

Lions Falter After Opening Win, Bow In County

by JIM COOK

They weren't selling runs at the concession stand adjacent to the Northbrook Legion diamond where the Cook County playoffs were unfolding.

Logan Square would certainly have come up with enough money to purchase two tallies — even of the cheap, unearned variety. The transaction would mean that the Lions would still be alive in the double-elimination tournament and eligible for the finals Sunday.

But Logan Square didn't pay the price on the field where runs are much more costly and were forced out of further competition by Bellwood, 4-3.

The defeat was the second for the Lons who suffered extinction by a heartbreaking 1-0 verdict against Northbrook and Saturday's 4-3 decision against Bellwood.

Just two measly runs. A team that scored hundreds of runs while compiling a dazzling 37-14-2 record. It just doesn't seem fair.

And it wasn't because opportunity didn't knock. As they had in 1-0 thriller, potential scoring chances arrived either when the Lions weren't home or when they didn't answer.

Maybe the disappointing hangover from the Northbrook defeat still hung like a cloud over the Lion dugout. The team was in a scoring-draught trance — a spell that infected the characteristically hard-hitting club immediately following an impressive three-game sweep of the Ninth District Tourney.

It's not that Bellwood didn't belong in the top-caliber competition — only that it probably would be in Logan Square's position had the latter played the ball it's capable of playing.

Bellwood scrapingly pecked away at Terry Smith — coach Larry Nomellini's choice in the crucial no-tomorrow contest — with hits in each of the first four innings.

Smith's initial test came in the second frame when he was solved for back-to-back leadoff singles by Bellwood's pitcher Rick Rochetti and Tim Verpaele.

The righthanded chucker wiggled free, though, on a pop to the first baseman, a routine fly to center and an important strikeout.

Bellwood stubbornly came right back in the third as Smith sank into quicksand via two walks sandwiched around a single. The scoreless deadlock vanished when Bill Sykora drilled a two-run single to right and the Lions were faced with the unfamiliar task of playing catchup baseball.

Stan Bobowski, probably the most consistent hitter for Logan Square all season, eased some of the pain by rocketing the tournament's first home run deep over the rightfield fence to shave the margin in half, 2-1.

Bellwood responded immediately. After Smith retired one, an error, stolen base and single to left restored the two-run bulge that loomed bigger and bigger as the innings grew fewer and fewer.

The middle frames were uneventful only in that no scoring took place. Smith had regained the groove and knocked down the side in both the fifth and sixth innings while the Lions, by stranding three more baserunners, continued to taste frustration.

When Bellwood increased its cushion to 4-1 via a Dan Moceri homer in the bottom of the seventh, the thought of elimination sparked new vigor into the desperate Lions.

The bench came alive in the eighth when pinch-hitter Terry Moriarity coaxed a full-count pass to lead off the frame and when Ken Martin slugged a run-scoring double up the left centerfield power alley, shades of a game-winning rally became more distinct.

Mike Cook, Thursday's hero of Logan Square's opening round 4-3 triumph over Calumet City, responded with a single in another pinch-hitting role to put the tying markers on base with still nobody out.

But then the plague — the scoring drought — made its mirage-like appearance. The next three Lion hitters were retired quickly and quietly.

The recovery room became active again in the ninth as Logan Square stepped back against the wall. Joe Bombicino beat out an infield hit and scampered to second on a wild throw.

Steve Bobowski kept the heat palpitating with a run-scoring single to right and when Tom Chapman sacrified the potential tying rally to second for only the first out, it appeared as if the Lions had shunned their crippling disease.

Mike Garbus, still another pinch-hitter, reached on a boot at third to represent the winning marker, but it also represented the end of the line.

Martin forced Garbus at second and relief pitcher Jim Miller grounded to second to end the threat, the game and the tournament season for Logan Square.

The Lions still have Park Ridge scheduled at home tonight in hopes of capturing a share of the regular-season Ninth District championship.

Northbrook's Swanson Bests Cook; Lions' First Loss In County Play

by JIM COOK

Everything was of major league caliber — the lights, the field, the crowd. But mostly the teams.

"I'd have paid two dollars to see these two teams play," one observer said. "You throw in a couple of beer vendors and maybe an exploding scoreboard and you couldn't have asked for anything else," commented another.

The professional atmosphere was created by Northbrook and Logan Square during a very attractive night engagement that concluded first-round play in the Cook County American Legion Tournament.

The clubs had traded identical 4-2 decisions during the regular season, but the addition of an elimination factor in the County playoffs lofted this game to a pedestal of an acute rivalry.

The 1-0 nine-inning Northbrook triumph had scouts running out of ink, notebook paper and superlatives. The Lion defeat stung the loss column to be sure. One more appearance by Logan Square on the short end of the stick meant cleaning out the lockers.

Morale, confidence and encouragement shouldn't have been shaken. A fraction of an inch or a split second the other way could easily have reversed the score. That's the kind of game it was.

The Lions, to begin, with, were at considerable odds as soon as they took the well-manicured field before a crowd that lined the baselines in both directions, spilled over in the deficiently-sized stands and even took up bleacher residence in automobiles on the shoulder of distant Waukegan Road.

Northbrook was making its initial appearance in the tourney and had its ace pitcher fresh on the sidelines — the result of a weird opening bye procedure that automatically goes to the host post.

Logan Square, meanwhile, had already endured a physically and mentally-draining 3-2 triumph over Calumet City earlier in the day during a steady drizzle and raw north wind.

But the Lions, who have relied on pitching depth through a grueling 50-game regular-season schedule, enthusiastically answered the bell.

Southpaw-slinging Mike Cook got the nod since Ken Martin had contributed a nine-inning stint in the victory over Calumet. Mike, a workhorse for head coach Larry Nomellini all year, had just finished shedding the hero's robe when his ninth-inning double broke up the Cal City tingler.

His mount opposition was righty Rich Swanson — a summer baseball camp veteran and owner of a major-league fastball. He almost didn't last long enough to unveil his smoke that soon polluted the field.

Logan Square had Swanson on the ropes in the very first inning and were perhaps one pitch away from stamping out the fuse of the flamethrower's offerings.

Martin opened the contest with a five-pitch walk and found the umpire's flat palms at second when the Northbrook shortstop bobbled a force-out throw on Mike Garbus' sacrifice attempt.

With still nobody down, Logan Square managed to run itself right out of a potentially big scoring opportunity. While Swanson was claiming Jim Bucaro as his first strikeout victim, Martin was nailed on an attempted theft of third.

It cost the Lions a run and possibly two as Stan Bobowski followed with a double up the right-centerfield power alley, but Logan Square came up empty-handed again as Garbus, who tried to tally from first base on the drive, was a dead duck at the plate.

Faulty baserunning, a factor against Cal City as well, continued to shadow the gambling Lions. Cook coaxed a leadoff pass in the third, but after Tom Chapman forced his teammate on a sacrifice effort, Martin kept the frame alive by earning his second ball four.

The threat went up in smoke again as Garbus fanned for the second out and Martin was caught leaning by the Northbrook catcher to douse the rally.

On and on it went. Wasted opportunities to break the game open went for naught. In the fourth, Logan Square loaded the bases with one out and allowed Swanson to escape unscathed.

They left two men stranded in the fifth, were victims of another pickoff in the sixth and finally succumbed to their frustration as Swanson knocked down 10 in a row down the stretch.

Cook seemed unnerved despite his team's failure to support his masterful pitching. The redhead was as brilliant as the surrounding light standards, and maybe more powerful.

He had Northbrook at his mercy over the first five innings in which he sent nine unbelievers back to the bench on strikes, walked only two and allowed only a pair the luxury of third base.

The victors finally touched Cook for their first hit in the sixth — an infield single of the scratch variety that deflected off the pitcher's glove and recorded their initial legitimate safety on a bouncer up the middle in the seventh.

The ball game was still scoreless through seven and one-half frames and seemed destined for extra innings when Cook knocked down the first two in the eighth.

Back-to-back walks on three disputed pitches keyed Northbrook's two-out success. Don Kunde, one of only three hitters to avoid Cook's strikeout brand, drove in the lone tally on a clean shot up the middle.

The Lions had the best of it statistically with four hits against Northbrook's three, five walks to the winner's four and one extra-base hit to their none.

Logan Square also stranded eight to Northbrook's four. Unfortunately the only category that the Lions didn't control was the scoring column.

As Time Goes By With Outboards

As aircraft have gone from short hops at Kitty Hawk to placing man on the moon, and automobiles have changed from the Tin Lizzie to Formula I racing machines, motorboating has gone from the old "coffee grinder" motors to a 3.6 billion dollar industry. All since the turn of the century.

But the time turned back, briefly, as the Antique Outboard Motor Club held their first national meet in Antioch.

"We chose Antioch," club president Dave Reinhartsen said, "Because it used to be a prime summer resort area, and because we wanted to be close to Waukegan to help celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Johnson Outboards."

While the resort hotels of the F. Scott Fitzgerald era have long since decayed and gone, Antioch found out that the outboard motors were as good as new.

Forty-eight members from 18 states brought their 30-year-and-older Johnson, Caille, Waterman, Waterbug, Motor Go, Elto, Bendix, and Evinrude outboards. Bob Brautigam drove down with his wife and family, in two cars, towing three boats, and bringing Johnson racing motors from 1930, 1933, and 1946. Reinhartsen drove up from Texas, bringing his 1925 and 1937 Johnsons. Brautigam has 175 motors in his personal collection.

In addition to displaying their old motors at Smith Marine — Sequoit Harbor, club members held three days of on-the-water events. Pleasure cruises, family regattas, races, a demonstration of 1929 water skiing, and even an old-time racers school filled the air with the sounds of outboarding's infancy.

Bob Thornton brought his roaring 20's racing motors and hydroplanes to give us a brief glimpse of what outboard motor racing was like back when it was a major intercollegiate sport.

Boats and motors were divided into planing and non-planing classes for the races. There were closed course speed races, as well as "Bang and Go Back" races. In the latter, all boats start out together, but when the leader reaches a buoy, a gun is fired and all make a 180 degree turn and head back. "It's designed to equalize differences in power or weight," Reinhartsen explained.

Since the first outboards were invented to save energy from rowing, it only seemed natural for man to challenge machine. An Indian canoe raced a 1922 Johnson. The winner? "I think we'll call it a draw," one judge said.

At the end of the three days, the club members were packing their motors back into their cars to head for home, and the putt-putt-putt of outboarding long-ago was, once again, just a memory.

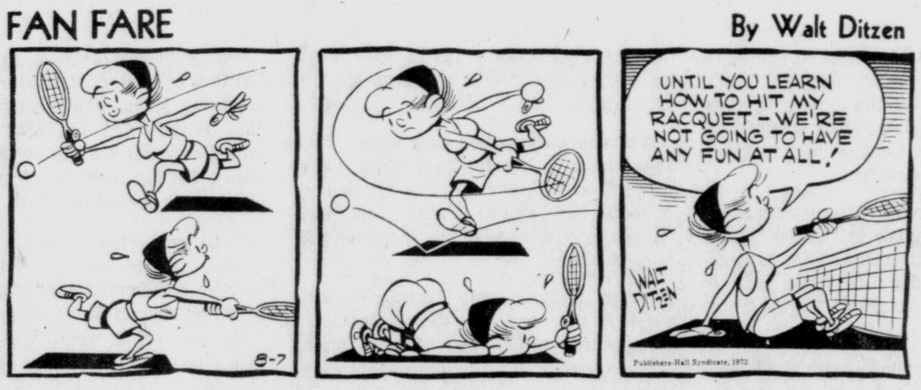

THIS 1933 JOHNSON outboard won the trophy for the "Best Restored Johnson" at the Antique Outboard Motor Club Meet. Boaters from 18 states came to Antioch for the three-day event.

THEY'RE OFF. This 1922 Johnson outboard was challenged to a race by an Indian canoe during the recent Antique Outboard Motor Club meet in Antioch. Did machine once again prove that it could replace man? "I think we'll call it a draw," one judge said.

Sobczynski Cops 2 Prizes

Palatine's Jim Sobczynski bagged a couple of big prizes Friday at Silver Lake Country Club.

Sobczynski fired an even par 72 (38-34) to capture both first place in the Junior Flight and also junior "golfer of the year" award in the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association. The latter was achieved by amassing the most points over the NIMAGA summer tour. One tourney has yet to be played.

Palatine neighbor John Lonergan was the next highest finisher of the 18 locals in the 111-man field. Lonergan took ninth with a 78 (40-38).

Cal Zimmerman of Arlington Heights was the only other area player to crack the top 20 with 18th in a 79 (41-38).

Rounding out the top five were Dave Thornally of Wheaton (37-37-74).

Capturing first place in the Senior Flight was Tim Hutcheson of Riverside. He fired a very fine round 70 (37-33), five strokes ahead of the next closest competitor.

Of the 15 seniors from the area competing in the 96-man field, Mount Prospect's Dave Black and Arlington's Terry McDonald finished the best with a tie for 13th at 78.

Rounding out the locals who cracked the top 30 were Prospect Heights' Mario Vitale with a 79 for 18th and Mount Prospect's Vic Incinelli, Hoffman Estates' Chris Dilger and Mount Prospect's Tom Schnell tied for 20th with 80's.

Scott Tree & Landscaping Leads

Scott Tree and Landscaping took over the top spot in the Monday night Arlington V.F.W. Golf League at Old Orchard Country Club with a win over the Cake Box.

Piepenbrink Movers, the league entry in the forthcoming Paddock Golf Tournament dropped to second by losing to the fast-moving L'Nor Cleaners led by Wayne Rolf's low gross round of 37. L'Nor Cleaners has moved from 10th to fifth place over the last two weeks.

Fetke Insurance and Active Heating, with convincing wins over Village Pipe and Cigar Shop and Mount Prospect Heating and Air Conditioning respectively, remain in third and fourth. Kehe, Foy & Snelten Insurance after spending the season in the cellar, finally crawled out, moving all the way up to 11th.

Low net honors went to Bill Becker of Nebel Insurance with a 45-14—31.

Horse Show In Indiana

Some 200 entries are expected to compete during the four sessions of the Lake County Central States Saddle Horse Show in Crown Point, Ind., Aug. 19 and 20.

Saddle horses will show in 51 classes at 12:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. both days, according to L. B. Wallace, show manager.

Exhibitors come from Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Kentucky. The show is sanctioned by the Indiana, Wisconsin, and Illinois Horse Show Associations, said Wallace.

Competing will be American Bred Saddle Horses (3-gaited and 5-gaited), Tennessee Walking Horses, Morgan, and Arabian. Utility horses, such as jumpers, show ponies, bridal path and equitation horses will also compete.

$1200* per trunk.

As you can see, the Volkswagen Type 3 Basic Compact Sedan has two luggage trunks. "OK, so where's the engine?" Simple. You'll find it underneath the floor of the rear trunk right over the drive wheels for better traction. But you won't find the radiator because the engine is air-cooled. There's no carburetor, either. Instead, there's a nifty electronic fuel injection system—unheard-of in a car that only costs $2400*. Or $1200* per trunk.

Volkswagen Type 3 Basic Compact Sedan.

*1972 VW Type 3 Basic Compact Sedan suggested retail price $2399, P.O.E., local taxes and other dealer charges, if any, additional.

'Rudder Pedal Down. . .Stick Forward. . .And We SOAR!'

Glider's bubble top is snapped into place.

by KURT BAER

I was mentally prepared for the bumpy ride down the grassy runway. My head was full of anticipation and there was no room for anxiety.

I even half-anticipated the intermittent moments of unstable flight as the still ungainly glider was being towed aloft by the 134-horsepower 1945 Piper Cub.

But when I pulled the red release lever and heard the loud snap of the nylon tow-line as it whipped away from the glider's nose, my heart slid to my stomach and I began to sense something of what this crazy sport is all about.

The wood-frame glider seemed to hum as its broad canvas wings cut through the air guided by the veteran pilot seated behind me in the cockpit.

Through the plane's bubble top I could see the small puffy clouds that marked the rising warm air thermals we had to find to stay up.

"O.K., we're going to make a right-hand turn now," ordered pilot Jim Kendell. "Push the right rudder pedal down and put the stick forward and to the right."

I GLANCED down at the duplicate set of controls in the cockpit in front of me, put my right foot on the rudder pedal, grabbed hold of the stick and eased it forward. Nothing happened.

Suddenly the plane's nose seemed to drop sharply and the right wing dipped toward the ground.

"A little too much," Kendell said calmly as he pulled the control stick back to neutral. The glider leveled off.

In fact, the plane was sailing effortlessly over green farm fields and small ponds. I recalled from a conversation on the ground that his glider's forward air speed rarely topped 45 mph.

"We're thermaling right now. Look at the gauge, we're rising nearly 1,000 feet per minute," Kendell said.

The plane, still horizontal, was rising like a balloon, as if it were being lifted by strings pulled from somewhere up above.

Kendell was pleased. These were the choice moments of soaring.

"We're going into a spiral," he announced next as the right wing dipped 60 degrees and the glider began to move in tight clockwise circles.

IT WAS AS if we were sliding slowly down an enormous invisible corkscrew. But the vertical speed gauge in front of me said the plane was climbing, not dropping.

"On a good day you could keep this up for 10 or 15 minutes," Kendell explained enthusiastically.

Our approach to the short airstrip was exhilarating.

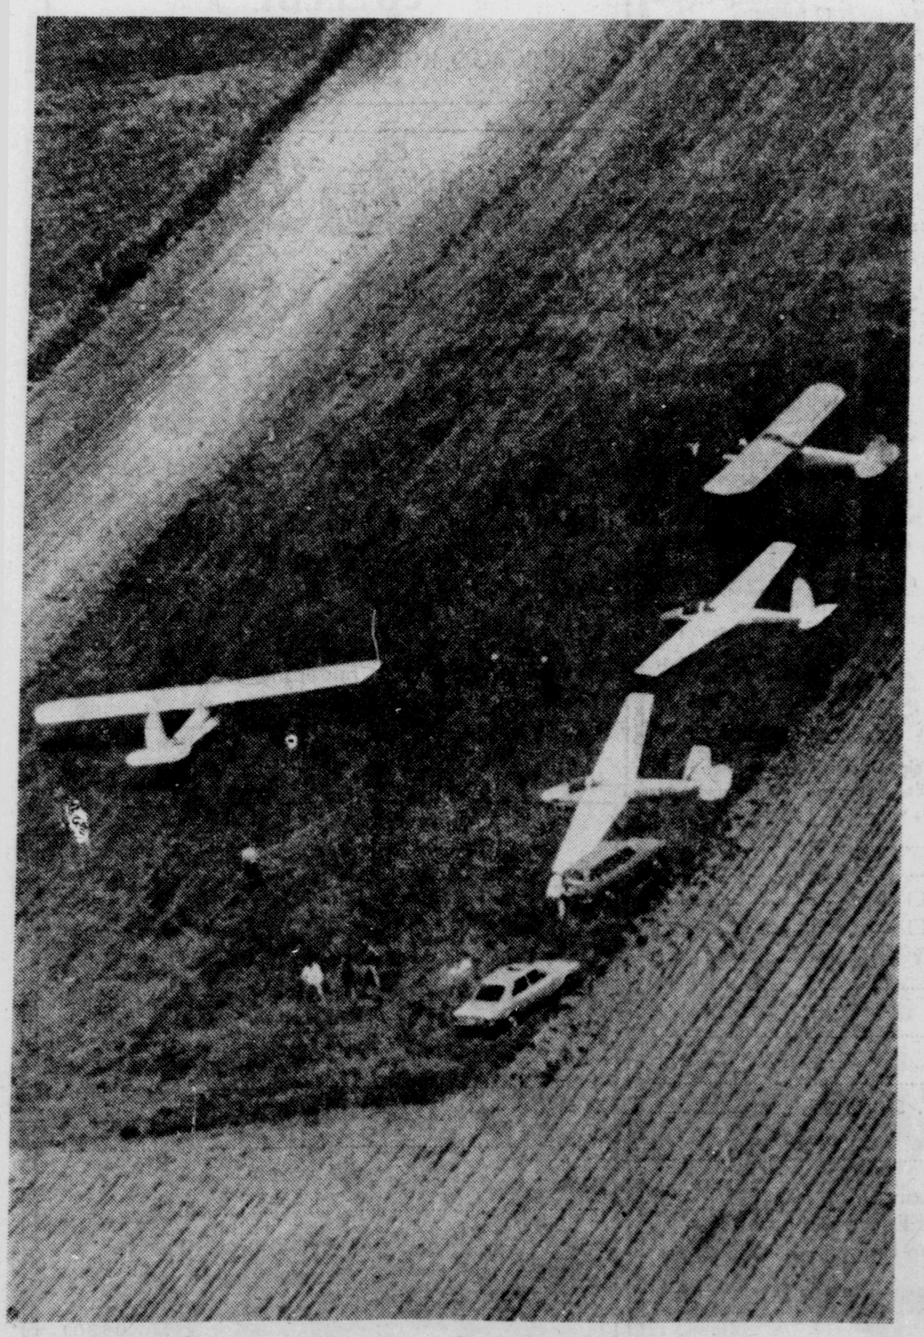

"We're coming down kind of fast because we can always translate that speed into distance if we need it," my back-seat pilot said.

"If I'm good today, we'll touch down right on the forward edge of the runway."

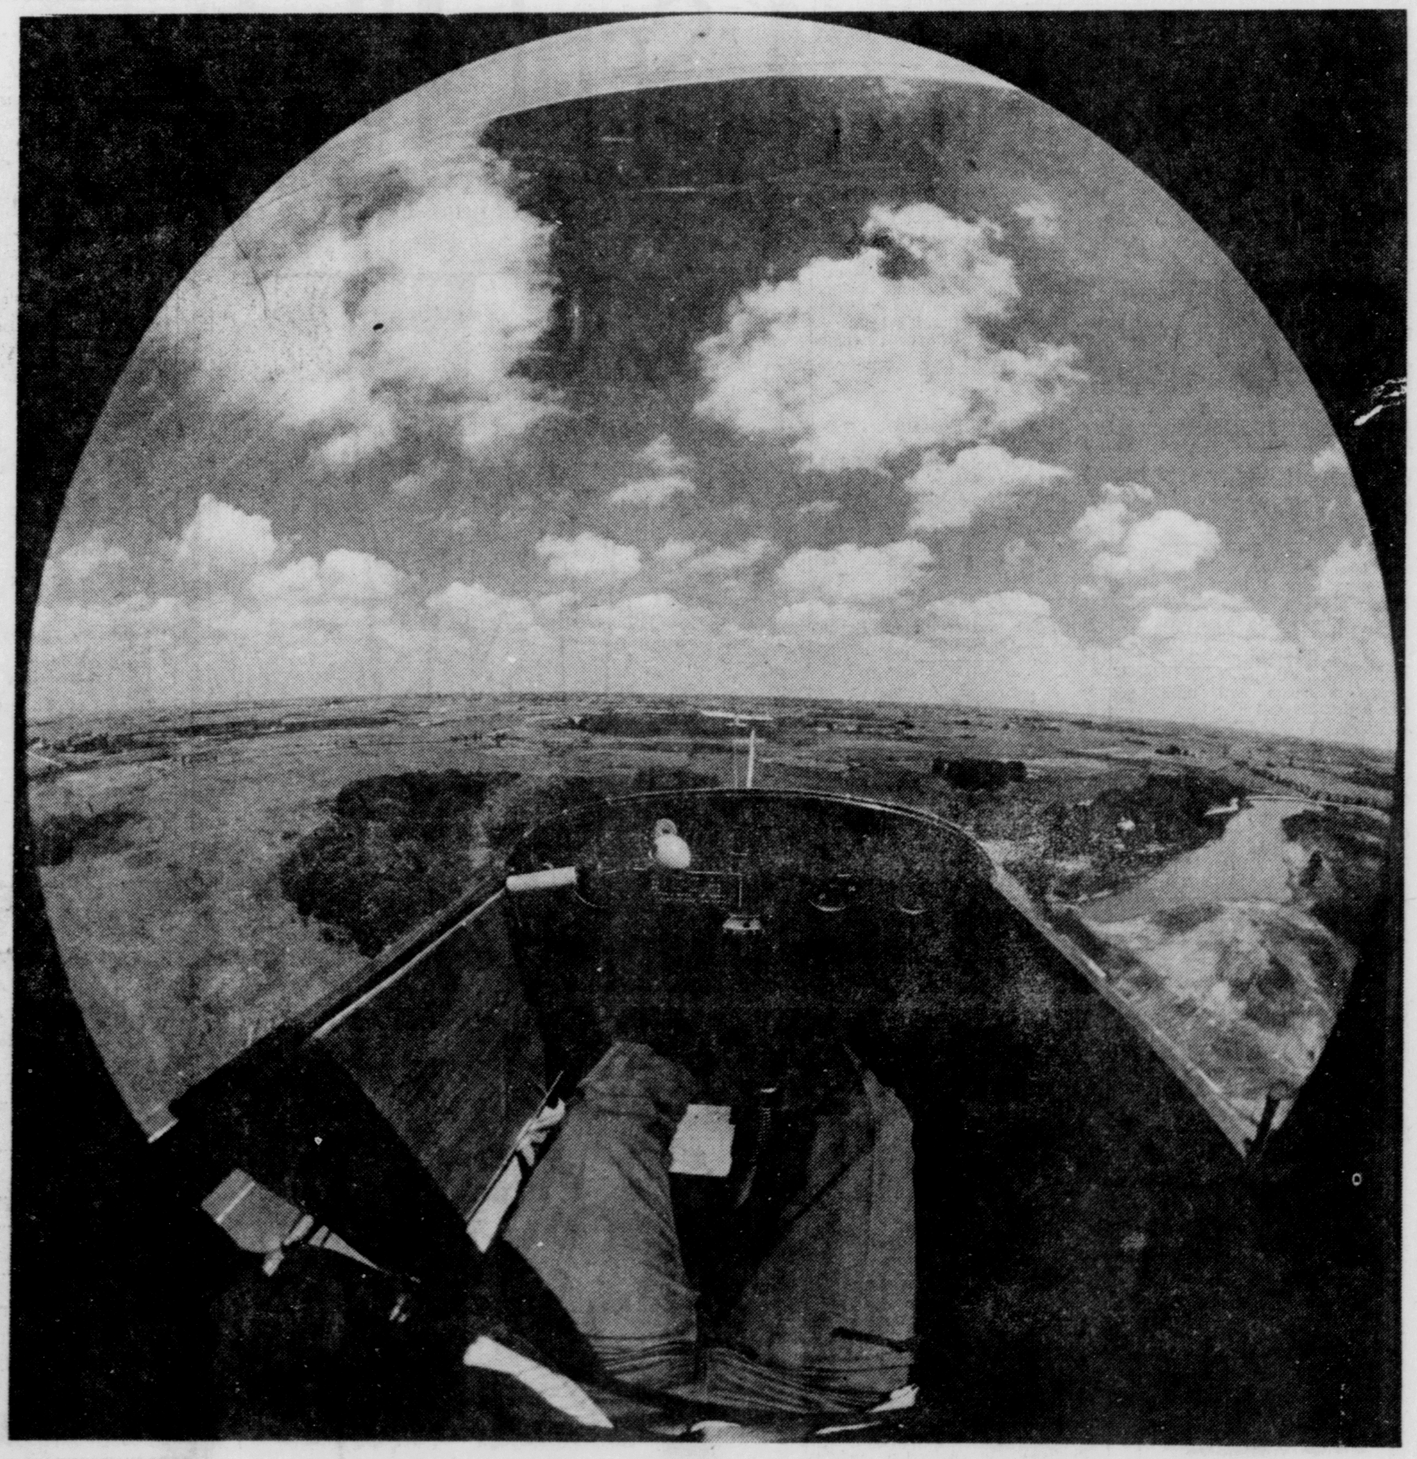

With a muffled thud the glider's belly settled down onto its one wheel. Seconds later we were stopped. The tip of the right wing was buried in tall grass.

The entire flight had taken less than 10 minutes, I learned later looking at the soaring club's log book. But that Sunday morning as I climbed out of the cockpit, you sure could have fooled me.
